TORY MP URGES GOV'T TO MUTE CBC ON BARRY

OTTAWA (CP)—A Conservative MP urged today that the CBC be asked to tone down commentators' attacks on Senator Barry Goldwater, Republican candidate for the U.S. presidency.

Wallace Nesbitt, MP for Oxford, said in the Commons many Americans think the CBC is the official voice of Canada. Such attacks could harm Canada-U.S. relations.

H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West) said Goldwater's comment on Britain's BBC is "lurid" compared to that on the CBC.

Government officials refrained from public comment, but newspapers in general described the choice of the Arizona as a victory for the forces of reaction and a threat to world peace.

Bitterest of all, predictably, was the Communist press.

Pravda, the organ of the Soviet Communist party, said Goldwater was running on the "most reactionary, bellicose and adventurist pre-election platform in American history."

The Moscow newspaper Sovetskaya Rossiya declared that Goldwater was backed by a coalition "consisting of the most aggressive capitalist groups, racists, trade union opponents crusaders of anti-communism and Ku Klux Klanners."

There were hard words for the Republican standard bearer from anti-Communist journals of Western Europe as well.

CALLED CATASTROPHE

Stockholm's liberal Expressen, the biggest daily in Scandinavia, described the nomination as "a catastrophe for the Republicans, a threat against the United States, a danger to the world."

Copenhagen's liberal Ekstrabladet asserted: "The blackest reaction won the battle in the Cow Palace. The progressive forces that have ruled in the Republican party since 1940 were trampled down under hooves this morning."

Cassandra, columnist of Britain's 5,000,000-circulation pro-Labor Daily Mirror wrote from the Cow Palace:

"The corpse of much that is decent and wise and tolerant in American society is in the coffin, although the lid has not yet been finally screwed down."

"Goldwater has won because he appeals to the frustrations of millions of Americans who are dissatisfied with the apparent ingratitude of foreign nations, who are sick and afraid of communism and who, at home, dislike the political and economic emergence of the Negroes."

The Conservative Daily Mail said Goldwater's win at San Francisco could affect the British general election campaign this fall and subject opposition Labor Leader Harold Wilson to "an acute tactical dilemma over his party's defence policy."

"The question now is: Can Britain risk handing over her deterrent power to Senator Goldwater if he becomes president."

"More than ever, Conservatives will argue the necessity for Britain to rely on her own nuclear deterrent."

The London Times correspondent in San Francisco spoke of the lengthy applause and sounding of horns that greeted former President Eisenhower's convention criticism of some American columnists and commentators.

BARRY GOLDWATER

... U.S. Republican presidential nominee

Barry Pledges 'Vigorous Fight'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Barry Goldwater pointed the Republican party along a conservative road today and promised a strong campaign against the Democrats with Rep. William E. Miller of New York as his vice-presidential running mate.

Goldwater, 55-year-old senator from Arizona, captured the GOP presidential nomination in a first-ballot victory at the party's national convention after routing his disorganized and inept opposition at every turn.

Miller, a tough campaigner who has been serving as Republican national chairman, responded to Goldwater's bid by saying he would be delighted to accept the No. 2 spot on the 1964 ticket.

The Republican delegates will ratify their new leader's selection of his campaign partner in a vice-presidential balloting at the Cow Palace late today. Goldwater will also make his acceptance speech tonight.

Goldwater meanwhile pledged himself to wage "a vigorous campaign" against President Johnson before the November election. He promised to conduct his fight for the White House in issues, not personalities and said he expected Johnson to do the same.

The vote Wednesday night was a crushing defeat for the liberal and moderate wing

Mail Clogs British Post Offices

LONDON (Reuters)—Mail sorting offices throughout Britain stopped work completely today as the country's 125,000 postmen staged a one-day official strike, the first in 73 years.

The country's mail services already had been put in a chaotic state by a series of wildcat strikes and overtime bans during the last week.

Today's strike appeared to be almost 100-per-cent effective.

Postmen planned demonstrations today in London and other centres in support of their claim for a 10½-per-cent wage increase. The government has offered a four-per-cent raise.

A union spokesman said today no peace talks were in sight. The one-day strike will be followed by a two-week overtime ban and a "work-to-rule" slowdown.

'RACISM AND JINGOISM'

Bitter Campaign Foreseen On Inflammable Issues

By WALTER LIPPMANN

SAN FRANCISCO—Measured by the vote on the proposed amendment to the civil rights plank in the platform, the moderates are about one-third of the delegates to the Republican convention.

They may in fact be somewhat stronger than that because there must be a number of delegates who voted with the Goldwater forces in order not to embarrass the presidential candidate of the party.

Yet, the Goldwater strength was better than two to one in the count of delegates. But he has never been able to show anything like such strength in any primary when the Republican voters were counted.

The primary victory in California, which started the hand-out of delegates, was won by the very narrow margin of 51 to 49 per cent.

The figures prove that the capture of the Republican party has been effected by working on and winning over delegates who represent only a minority of the Republican voters.

As a candidate, Senator Goldwater has to win back anti-Goldwater Republicans and to draw Democrats away from Johnson. How he goes about doing that will determine the nature of the coming campaign.

White Backlash

Senator Goldwater's problem is that the most effective way to draw Democrats away from Johnson will at the same time push Republicans towards Johnson.

It is quite evident in the platform that Senator Goldwater is relying heavily on attracting Democrats from the "white backlash," and by appealing to the ethnic groups from the captive nations of eastern Europe.

To a certain degree, the two appeals are complementary, for the white backlash is noticeably strong among recent immigrants from eastern Europe.

These are the hottest elements in his campaign strategy. To exploit the white backlash of resentment against Negroes, he will not use the word "enforce" in talking about civil rights. They are to be allowed to think that he will not enforce the act.

He will, the immigrants who have strong family ties in the

CONFERENCE ENDS

Pearson Stars In Compromise On Rhodesia

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN

LONDON (CP)—Black Africa leaders headed for an African "summit" meeting in Cairo today and, says Prime Minister Pearson of Canada, they carried something worthwhile from the week-long London Commonwealth conference.

HIGHWAY 16

Three Men Vanish In North

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—

RCMP here, mystified over the disappearance of three men on the 488-mile road between here and Prince George, completed a search of the highway Wednesday without finding a trace of the missing trio.

The latest to disappear was John Mehler, 47, who recently resigned as head of the University of Alaska library. His wife reported him missing July 8.

She told RCMP she and her husband were driving to the United States in separate cars. Her husband stopped for gas and when he failed to catch up with her she retraced her route but could not find him.

June 27, brothers Arne and Harold Hovden of North Vancouver rented a car here for a drive to Prince George. They haven't been seen since. The car is also missing.

The RCMP search Wednesday was an effort to determine if the cars may have left the road and plumed down a steep embankment.

Cyprus Heats Up

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—Fresh fighting combined with reports of new arrivals of men and weapons from Greece today heightened the danger of full-scale war in Cyprus.

The 13th conference of Commonwealth prime ministers that closed Wednesday night "proved itself virile, interesting, real—and, above all, alive," says The Daily Mail. "Nobody has 'trumped,' says The Daily Express.

Pearson encompassed both those views when he met reporters Wednesday.

On Southern Rhodesia, the rock on which some feared the Commonwealth might founder, the conference formulated a compromise statement that Pearson described as "an achievement of compromise and concession."

PLUNGED IN

It is significant that the 6,000-word communiqué plunged straight into racial questions, using word-for-word the declaration of racial equality submitted by Pearson.

The 18 Commonwealth leaders expressed the view that a conference on Southern Rhodesian independence should be convened with the leaders of all parties free to attend, a stipulation that would mean freeing political prisoners.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home said later he did not know whether a constitutional conference could be called. He told a press conference he could not express an opinion until he had been in consultation with Southern Rhodesia's premier, Ian Smith.

CAN'T UPSET SMITH

The communiqué also said the granting of independence was a matter to be decided by the British government but, as Pearson pointed out, Sir Alec showed considerable flexibility on the whole issue. The British

ALL-OUT EFFORT TO AVERT STRIKE

The provincial government is making a full-scale effort to avert a strike of 4,000 employees planned Friday in the Kootenay mining industry. Labor Minister Leslie Peterson said today that a cabinet minister and two top labor department officials are attempting to bring about a last-minute settlement.

The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers has called a strike against Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. lead-zinc plants at Kimberley and Trail.

Mines Minister Donald Brothers, and conciliation officers Reg Clements and E. P. Fisher were meeting with both sides today.

"I am hopeful that the issue can be settled without a work stoppage," Mr. Peterson said.

The strike, set for 3 p.m. Friday, would be the first at Cominco in 45 years.

The union has rejected a conciliation board recommendation on wages and working hours.

No Baby-Kissing, Hand-Shaking Role for Barry

By WALTER R. MEARS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—While the campaign crowd cheered him, Arizona's Senator Barry Goldwater stood smiling and waiting—and a trifle impatient.

For nearly 10 minutes the ovation thundered through New York's Madison Square Garden, last spring, and the chant We Want Barry became a roar.

"You'll get him if you'll just be quiet," the senator shouted.

Goldwater's reaction to that burst of cheers may be unique in presidential campaigning, but so in many ways, is Goldwater.

The biggest triumph of his primary campaign—in California—wrought no change in the senator's nonchalant outlook.

He welcomed it with a word of thanks to his supporters—then took the back door out of his hotel to avoid the crowd of jubilant fans.

"He's not a man who likes to exploit his triumphs," said campaign director Denis Kitchel. "He acts pretty much in victory as he does in defeat."

By his own account, Goldwater is bucking the trend of history in seeking the presidency as a senator from a small western state.

OUTSPOKEN ON HUSTINGS

And he has said some things on the campaign trail that would have had other politicians washing their own mouths with soap.

"I'm not one of those baby-kissing, hand-shaking, blintz-eating candidates," he said once. "I don't like to insult the American intelligence by thinking that slapping people on the back is going to get you votes."

An Episcopalian (Anglican) Goldwater doesn't campaign on Sundays. He has walked briskly through more than one

FAT LITTLE GIRL SACRIFICES LIFE

Nobody Laughs at Her Any More

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto girl, whom everyone teased because she was chubby, sacrificed her life to push a friend to safety when they were trapped on a railway trestle

Wednesday. It was her 14th birthday.

Carol Strudwick and her friend, Jean Apps, 13, were returning from a swimming pool in the east end of the city when they decided to take a short cut over the trestle.

"Carol saved my life," Jean sobbed. "I felt her push me off the tracks. We were talking and we didn't hear the train until it was just a little way behind us. We didn't hear the whistle."

Jean rolled to safety and escaped with leg grazes and shock but Carol's foot got stuck in the tracks and she was hurled onto a steel crossbeam below the trestle.

Jean's 15-year-old brother, a witness to the accident, said Carol's last words were "How's Jean?"

She was dead on arrival at hospital.

The girls had been classmates at school and were "like peas in a pod," said Jean's father,

Gone fishin'.

BARRY CALLS JOHNSON CIVIL RIGHTS 'FAKER'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Sen. Barry Goldwater opened his election campaign Wednesday with a charge that President Lyndon Johnson is "the biggest faker in the United States" on civil rights.

Goldwater said the Democrat in the White House "opposed civil rights until this year." If Johnson attempts to make political capital out of the fact that the Arizona senator voted against the 1964 civil rights law, Goldwater said, "I'll recite the thousands of words that he has spoken" against rights measures in the past.

In a talk with reporters, Goldwater blasted heavily at Johnson, calling him at one point "the phoniest individual that ever came around."

of the Republican party.

Twenty-three minutes after the roll call of the 50 states began, Goldwater became the nominee when South Carolina cast its 16 ballots to put him over the necessary 655 total.

By a motion of Pennsylvania Governor William W. Scranton, his leading opponent, the nomination was made officially unanimous.

Victory came amid the sheer pandemonium that accompanies an American presidential convention.

Goldwater demonstrated from control of the party and the convention in contrast to four years ago when, in withdrawing his name from consideration for the nomination, he urged conservatives not to desert the party.

This time, it was the party's moderates and liberals who had to march into the glaring lights on the podium to urge their supporters not to take a walk.

could have won the war if he, and not Hitler, had been the furrier, so the former supreme Allied commander managed to suggest that if he had been president at the time the wehrmacht would have been allowed to ravage Europe. He forgot that it was Hitler who declared war on the United States; and there was no mention of the gas chambers, the concentration camps, or the bombing of Coventry and London.

A contrary view of Goldwater—and a forecast that he could win the presidency—came from the independent London Evening Standard's Jean Campbell, who also disagreed with most of her British colleagues.

"For the first time in 34 years the Republican party has fallen into the hands of the conservatives, the natural and healthy opposition for the liberal Democrats," she wrote from the Cow Palace.

"You have only to sit in this crazy Cow Palace to realize that Barry Goldwater could beat the Democrats. Why? Because in his own heart and true words he offers a choice, not an echo."

In Paris, the left-leaning Combat described Goldwater as "an irresponsible prospect for president who risks blowing up the world, blowing up Europe, blowing up his own country."

Reaction in conservative, strongly anti-Communist Spain was mixed.

Several Spanish government officials expressed delight at the nomination.

"Now," said one, "we will see a real live, hard-hitting campaign in the states."

The Madrid newspaper El Alcazar said Goldwater wants "not only to combat Communism but to prohibit it within the frontiers of the Communist countries themselves. These are, and no other, the politics of force of the senator from Arizona, and he can only carry them out with a war."

Former president Eisenhower said "Scranton's call for party unity" has vastly increased our chances for victory in November.

Michigan Governor George Romney, New York Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller and Scranton hurried to Goldwater's headquarters to congratulate the winner.

All of these efforts to substitute harmony for dissension among the Republicans brought a blast from Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey.

In Washington, Bailey said in a statement the Republican party "has been captured by a radical minority... completely divorced from the heritage and principles of our nation."

In an obvious indication of the kind of campaign the Democrats intend to launch against Goldwater, Bailey added:

"That radical minority has dictated the choice of a candidate whose purpose is to divide rather than unify the country."

Ike Admits Politics Not His Cup of Tea

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Former President Dwight Eisenhower says he "never will quite understand" politicians. And he recalls being "bored to pieces" by the convention roll call which made him the Republican presidential nominee in 1952.

Eisenhower shared with television viewers Wednesday memories of his first-ballot conquest of Sen. Robert Taft for the GOP nomination at Chicago 12 years ago. Talking about the roll call vote, he said:

"This bored me to pieces. I just couldn't have had any less interest, and particularly when they got to polling the delegations by name."

The 73-year-old general said he had little trouble switching from positions of military

FIVE-FOR-ONE STOCK SPLIT APPROVED

TORONTO (CP)—Shareholders of Interprovincial Pipe Line Co. Wednesday approved at a special meeting a five-for-one stock split of the company's common shares.

Approval was given to the company's directors to petition Parliament for a special act to subdivide the shares. The move is necessary because Interprovincial was incorporated by the special act of Parliament in 1949.

Company president T. S. Johnston said he hopes the split may be accomplished before the year-end.

HE WON'T SPARE THE DEMOCRATS

Goldwater Running Mate Has 'Gut-Fighter' Label

By GEOFFREY GOULD

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—William Edward Miller, the Republican choice for vice-president, is what politicians call a gut-fighter.

In the coming months, he can be counted on to approach the Democrats with a figurative baton in one hand and a baseball bat in the other.

"Pugnacious" "slam-bang," "rock-em-and-sock-em" are some of the terms writers have applied to this slim, dark, intense 50-year-old lawyer and congressman from the "Niagara Frontier" country.

A congressman for 14 years, he has been chairman of the Republican national committee for the last three.

Here are some examples of the Miller style:

● The day after he became national chairman in 1961, while President Kennedy was meeting Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Vienna, Miller said "I can only hope and pray that it wasn't to negotiate some under-the-table deal in order to increase his prestige, which was lowered as a result of the Cuban incident."

● In 1962, when the Senate defeated the administration's medical care for the aged bill, Miller accused Kennedy of putting on "a smoothly rehearsed cry-baby performance."

● Speaking of President

MILLER
... 'pugnacious'

Johnson at Dayton, Ohio, in April, Miller said: "There are only two businesses better off today than they were under the Republican party. That's the seat belt business in Texas and the paint business in Washington to whitewash the investigations."

He was referring to President Johnson's driving habits around his Texas ranch, and to the investigation of Bobby Baker, who rose to power and influence while Lyndon Johnson was majority leader of the Senate.

Miller stands five feet seven and is a dapper dresser. He favors a homburg hat, chesterfield overcoat, dark blue suit, striped tie and French cuffs.

As a Roman Catholic and a northerner, Miller would balance the Republican ticket, as politicians say, meaning he provides a contrast to Senator Barry Goldwater's Arizona origin and religious background. Goldwater's grandfather was a Jewish immigrant from Poland, and the senator is an Episcopalian (Anglican).

Born in Lockport, N.Y., near Niagara Falls, he is a graduate of Notre Dame and Albany, N.Y., law school. He rose from private to lieutenant in the army during the Second World War and was an assistant in the prosecution of Nazi war criminals at the Nuremberg trials.

Governor Thomas E. Dewey gave Miller his start in politics by appointing him district attorney of Niagara County. He later won the job in a regular election and went on to the House of Representatives in 1950.

He is married to the former Stephanie Wagner. They have four children.

BARRY NOT TOO PLEASED

Rights Protest Okay 'If at a Decent Level'

By ROBERT STRAND
United Press International
SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—For the first time, Sen. Barry Goldwater may come face to face today with the civil rights demonstrators who have been protesting his nomination all week.

If the demonstrators act as they did last night, Goldwater won't like what he sees.

In his victory statement, Goldwater spoke of what he had seen on television of the young Negroes and white persons who picketed, sang, and flopped themselves down at strategic locations at the Cow Palace.

"It didn't present a very pretty picture," Goldwater said.

He said he didn't mind civil rights demonstrations against him "if they keep it at a decent level."

But if, he said, the demonstrators get out of hand and wind up being arrested "they'll be hurting their own cause... and I don't want to see them hurt their cause one bit."

Anti-Goldwater demonstrators have picketed the wind-swept approaches to the Cow Palace for two successive sessions of the Republican convention. Goldwater hasn't been within miles of the place.

Tonight, though, he will be going to the convention hall to accept the presidential nomination that the marchers have been protesting. The demonstrators indicated they would be there, too.

Last night's civil rights demonstration was the most uproarious of the convention week.

About 500 demonstrators created disturbances in and around the Cow Palace. Police hauled some of them away, but treated most of them gently.

The most violent scene erupted during a sit-in on a street in front of the Cow Palace. William Allen, 22, a member of the Congress of Racial Equality, got into an altercation while he was standing in a crowd watching a group of sit-inners.

Eight policemen tackled Allen and carried him, struggling to a patrol wagon. His hands and feet were bound. Officers talked to him for a few minutes and he was released.

Inside the Cow Palace, three demonstrators tried to lie down in front of the speaker's stand after a demonstration for Gov. William W. Scranton. They were hustled away.

One young man, identified as Tom Rolland, 27, a University of California student, was taken into custody. He was taken to the Daly city police station and released after questioning.

As the session broke up, traffic was snarled in several places by CORE marchers. One group of demonstrators marched around carrying a coffin which bore the legend: "Republican party, born 1860, died 1964."

The demonstrators dwindled to about 30. Some of them lay down on the Geneva Avenue exit from the Cow Palace. Police routed traffic to other exits.

GOP 'Old Boys' Heard No More

Goldwater's Decisive Victory Marks End of An Era In GOP

By ARTHUR EDSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—In politics, mortality often comes unexpectedly and devastatingly.

Nothing can illustrate the harsh facts of political life and death better than this Republican national convention.

As the Republicans named their presidential candidate for the Nov. 3 U.S. election, voices they recently listened to with respect—in politics power is always respected—were silent or ignored.

Republicans who believe in Senator Barry Goldwater they have their first truly Republican candidate in a generation, and those who sorrowfully proclaim this is a step backward to party disaster, can agree on this:

An era is over. The Wilkie-Dewey-Eisenhower-Nixon bloc has been routed.

Look at it in terms of the individuals involved. Four years ago Richard Nixon came within a whisker of the White House. He came within a few hundred thousand votes of winning over the late John F. Kennedy. Except for Dwight D. Eisenhower, a national hero able to attract national support, no other Republican has done so well since Herbert Hoover's victory in 1928.

Nixon sat Wednesday in his hotel suite, polishing a speech in which he will present the smiling, successful candidate to the convention today. It's a meagre role, by any standards, and up to the last Richard M. Nixon must have hoped for something better.

Or take Eisenhower. He still is the party's greatest rallying figure.

After Ike Spoke He Was Ignored

So he made his pitch Tuesday night. He was applauded.

And then the convention went on about its business as if it hadn't heard a word he said.

Or take Nelson A. Rockefeller, who as governor of New York should have been one of the most powerful men here. He was booed Tuesday night, but almost indifferently. Had he been a figure to reckon with, those opposing him would really have it.

Or look at Henry Cabot Lodge, who in 1952 was bustling about getting Eisenhower the nomination and who in 1960 was a popular choice for the vice-presidential nomination.

Well, Lodge has hustled here, promising instant miracles, but the more he talked the more obvious it was that in backing Governor William Scranton of Pennsylvania, Goldwater's opponent for the Republican nomination, he had enlisted in a cause already lost.

Beyond the Hoop-la

BECAUSE THEY REMEMBER the election in which Harry S. Truman trusted himself when all men doubted, political experts in the United States are less than dogmatic in predicting defeat for Senator Barry Goldwater in November. Most of them fail to see how he can beat President Johnson, but they appreciate errors of the past and they are—or the majority seem to be—deeply impressed by the organization which has brought the Arizona senator up on a mounting wave that has drowned opponents in his own party.

The distinguished political writers at this point seem less concerned with the outcome of November's polling than they are with the results of the Goldwater-San Francisco victory on the Republican Party; on the nation and on the influence his display of strength has had on allies in other parts of the world. The misgivings which seize many of the most reputable writers are indicated in other columns on this page by Mr. Walter Lippmann, Mr. Joseph Alsop and Mr. Max Freedman.

At the Cow Palace they have seen a new connotation placed on the might of the Right. In different fields they expect divisiveness within the United States, distress among friends of the country—and, to some extent, the ouster of the elements representing calm reason.

It is standard practice at times of national party conventions when presidential nominees are being chosen to point out that the real sentiment of the nation, the hard core of character, is obscured in the flamboyant hoop-la of the occasion. At San Francisco this week, the color, noise and histrionics have not hidden the very serious change that has taken place within the Republican Party. This is no ordinary circus where the illusion prevents sight of the actuality.

Canadians, who cannot be entirely disinterested observers, will broaden their understanding of the tide set in faster flow at San Francisco by digesting the opinions of sober analysts presented to the right.

As Others See Us

CANADIANS WHO ARE ALREADY annoyed at the manner in which the country's legislators are frittering away their time in Ottawa while a great number of important matters await decisions will hardly be mollified by the image of this country which is going abroad as a result of the squabbling in the Commons.

It is disconcerting, for instance, to find The Economist, that most respected and influential British weekly journal, comparing the Canadian public's reaction to Parliamentary disorder with the "cynical manner of Frenchmen under the Fourth Republic."

"The stupidities of the flag debate," The Economist informs its readers, "unfortunately, have to be taken seriously. It has intensified a cynicism about parliament . . . of a kind that would be dangerous for any democracy." In view of the divisions between Quebec and the rest of Canada, along with vulnerability to immense economic, cultural and political pressures from the United States, the journal notes, "content for Parliament contains the seeds of national dissolution."

"The only chance of an early end to the flag debate," The Economist tells its readers, "seems to lie in the growing awareness of some MPs that the public is bored and disgusted with their shenanigans. If enough Conservatives reach this conclusion, they may be able to restrain Mr. Diefenbaker and let Parliament get on with its work. But the signs are not hopeful. The public is not much interested in the legislators' political games, and it has learned to expect very little indeed from 'that gang in Ottawa'."

What fools we Canadians look in the eyes of foreigners who read this not inaccurate description of our political troubles.

Gone With the Buffalo Herds

THE PRESIDENT OF THE Canadian Home and School and Parent-Teacher Federation says the Indian has been deprived of his traditional means of livelihood, his spirit is on the wane and he is being "wiped out by assimilation."

The latter development, he suggests, is the outcome of everyone wanting to make the Indian become a "white man."

This may be a reasonably accurate picture of the native when viewed in the perspective of history. Certainly white men preach more assimilation than Indians appear to be willing to accept if the rejection of enfranchisement is any indication. The number in British Columbia who wish to give up their status as Indians to become citizens on a par with other Canadians—and without special legal discriminations or privileges—is pitifully small.

But perhaps there is less of an indictment against the white man than appears on the surface of the Home and School spokesman's statement. It is true the traditional means of livelihood known in earlier years to the Indians are being withdrawn. That occurred, for many of them, when the great herds of buffalo disappeared.

It is also true that the means of livelihood for many white men have likewise disappeared—some trappers, for instance, when beaver hats went out of style.

There is probably no unqualified reason why an Indian should want to become a white man. But each is a human being and human beings have to adjust themselves to the conditions of change if they wish to survive.

Many highly principled and generous Canadians are anxious to help the Indian to make the adjustment for survival without unduly interfering with the culture or way of life he knows and cherishes.

Change, nevertheless, must come, and it will come most effectively when the Indian decides to make it himself—just as others have to make their adjustments in a world which refuses to stand still.

By all means, let the fortunate Canadians enjoying life today do what they can to assist the native, but let's not revert to the dream that the buffalo can be revived.

A Bad Taste

THE REVELATION THIS week that two Victoria youngsters who won a trip to Hollywood in the talent hunt held in conjunction with the city's first Spring Flower Festival were unable to collect their prizes from the contest promoter has left a bad taste in a lot of mouths.

Fortunately, through the generosity of others, the two youngsters will get their trip to Hollywood. But Victorians will be reminded that this is not the first time that "big-time" promoters have come to the city with grandiose plans, filled their pockets with local money and then failed to deliver what was promised.

While it seems that none of the individuals or groups involved in the festival can be blamed for this latest incident, they must all feel some sense of moral responsibility as a result of the fact that the talent revue was allowed to appear as part of the festival.

Surely, now, those responsible for organizing local celebrations will have learned the lesson that a glib tongue is no substitute for good references and they will demand in the future that any person or organization wishing to take part will have to provide guarantees of performance.

Additionally it might be suggested that city council look into the legal aspects of requiring that when prizes are offered for participation in contests, the prizes or their cash equivalent be deposited beforehand with some local firm or agency.

Nothing for Nothing

TWO UNIVERSITY OF RHODE Island professors have recently completed a study of the effects trading stamps have on the price of groceries.

They have come to the conclusion, after conducting an 11-month survey, that stamps increased the cost of dry groceries 3.482 per cent. When costs of the groceries were adjusted to cover the value represented by the stamps, the increase was still 2.02 per cent.

In the course of research the professors also found that grocers would like to get out of the stamp business because it is a very costly promotional device.

Which reasserts the old truism: no one gets something for nothing. So who wants trading stamps?

"Well, I didn't really go out to kill it, but when you're bagging big game . . ."

THE BATTLE OF SAN FRANCISCO

The Demand for Unconditional Surrender By WALTER LIPPMANN

SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER has won a total victory in the convention, and has now demanded that the Republican party surrender to him unconditionally. The terms of the dictated peace are set down in the Goldwater platform.

It makes no concessions to the moderate or Eisenhower wing and does not even offer them a few crumbs to comfort them and save their faces. Barry Goldwater is riding high, and he is doing nothing to make it any easier for men like Scranton, Rockefeller, Lodge, Keating, Scott, Cooper, Kuchel, Percy, Saltonstall and Milton Eisenhower to solve the problem of how to remain Republican. The customary civilities and amenities of normal American party politics are entirely lacking in this ruthless conquest of the party machinery.

The basic assumption of the Goldwater majority is that they are the true Republican party. What they are doing is to capture the party name and machinery by ousting the aliens who have dominated it in this century.

To anyone who grew up in the Republican tradition of Hamilton, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt, what is happening in San Francisco looks like the seizure of the old party by a faction which rejects all its basic historic principles. But to the majority of the delegates at the Cow Palace this is the restoration of the Republican party, and they are saving it.

Picking Up Taft Struggle

It is clear enough, I think, that they are picking up the struggle which Taft lost to Eisenhower in 1952 and are reversing the results. One of the reasons that they are able to do this is that in Eisenhower's two terms, and despite much talk about modern Republicanism, the general did not reorganize the party which was split and demoralized after the long years of the Roosevelt-Truman ascendancy.

As soon, then, as the Democrats pulled themselves together in the aftermath of World War II and the Korean War, the Democrats renewed their ascendancy. This was obscured in the close election of 1960, largely because of the religious issue. The Kennedy victory was artificially smaller than the real Democratic strength. Since 1960, the Democratic party has been becoming more and more powerful.

The feebleness of the Republican moderates is due in a measure, I think, to the competitive drain upon their intellectual and moral capital, upon their energy and enthusiasm, by the Kennedy-Johnson Democrats. There is a half-truth in the Goldwater argument that his Republican opponents are merely me-tooers. The full truth is that in this century the Democratic party, first under Wilson and then under Franklin Roosevelt, has taken over the historic principles of the old Republican party.

It is much more significant than is generally admitted that Franklin Delano Roosevelt was the kinsman of President Theodore Roosevelt. In fact, F. D. R., though he joined the Democrats, was a disciple of T.R. and readily acknowledged it.

It was during the era of the New Deal that the Democratic party became federalist and progressive and, with the rise of Hitler, internationalist as well. The Republican party machinery was left in the control of men who had lost the old party principles and were in the main isolationists, conservatives, reactionaries and provincial.

Rejections

Senator Goldwater is the leader of the movement to build a new party rejecting the principles of the old party and casting off the Republicans in Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, New York, California and elsewhere who, by adhering to their basic principles, have led the party to local victory. Senator Goldwater has renounced the old traditional principles and now regards them, which is in a measure true, as principles of the Democratic party.

An Appeal to the 'White Backlash'

THE pattern the Goldwater Republicans hope to impose on the 1964 campaign is rather clearly revealed by the platform written by Sen. Barry Goldwater's massive majority on the platform committee.

There will be a lot of talk about Bobby Baker and related topics, as might be expected. Probably the job of leading this personal attack on President Johnson will be delegated to the Vice Presidential nominee, Rep. William Miller of New York, who is adept at this sort of thing, is at this writing in the lead for this assignment.

The real guts of the campaign, however, will be an appeal to the so-called white backlash. The platform makes that quite clear. There is a pallid statement that the civil rights act ought to be enforced; but this is coupled with a condemnation of "inverse discrimination."

in the schools and by job-proration.

The schools are one of the super-sensitive topics, particularly likely to promote white backlash. There has been a very real backlash already in every city where the traditional neighborhood school system has been tampered with, in order to correct the de facto segregation that results from concentration of much of the northern Negro population in urban ghettos.

Restricted Housing

The other super-sensitive topic, housing, will no doubt come in for even stronger mention during the campaign. To illustrate the inflamed character of the housing problem, an initiative is on this year's California ballot to repeal this state's recently passed fair housing law. If this measure wins a majority, it will not only legalize real estate covenants excluding Negro home owners. It can also be used to justify anti-Jewish, anti-Catholic, anti-Italian and anti-any-one-else covenants. Yet the local polling organizations find that unfair housing is highly likely to get a majority here.

Even Representative Miller's probable selection for the Vice-Presidential spot fits into the pattern of appeal to the white backlash. As a member of Congress, he is a lame duck, since population and other charges have shot his congressional district out from under him. He was also a supporter of Gov. William W. Scranton, and he was strongly opposed to Barry Goldwater, until the Goldwater forces tapped him as a probably Vice-Presidential nominee.

The main reason they tapped him, beyond much doubt, is the simple fact that Miller is a Catholic. The white backlash is particularly strong among lower-income Poles, Irish, Italians and other predominantly Catholic racial groups. If a fellow-Catholic is placed on the Republican ticket, his appeal to these groups will no doubt strengthen the backlash tendency.

The practical politics of this year's election consequently differs from the politics of any past election in this century. In the person of Senator Goldwater, the Republicans have found a man whose views of war and peace and other subjects have alarmed and alienated great numbers of people in his own party—a man who now commands the support of less than one-quarter of the American electorate. The Gallup Poll showing this incredible result in a straight Goldwater-Lyndon Johnson test was published on the eve of the voting here—but without making any visible dent.

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Dire Losses

The inquiring Dr. Gallup, may, of course, be wrong. Yet his errors and the other pollsters' errors have never exceeded a few percentage points. As of now, therefore, the Republican Party's loss on the swings, because of the choice of Goldwater, appears to be very dire indeed.

The question for 1964 is whether this loss can then be compensated by the gain on the roundabouts of the white backlash in the North and, of course, by Goldwater's appeal to the racists in the South. No final answer to that question can be given now, because no guiding data is available from past American political experience.

Completely Ignoring the Winds of Change By MAX FREEDMAN

THE Republican platform on foreign policy could have been written in the worst period of the Cold War. Not once in this entire document is there the slightest suggestion that great changes have taken place in world affairs that make the old slogans obsolete and dangerous.

The Republicans might have written this program at the time of the Berlin blockade instead of in the era of the test ban treaty and the growing quarrel between Russia and China.

At one point the Republicans pledge themselves to pursue "the Cold War offensive." This stands in clear challenge to the "strategy of peace" to which President Kennedy was committed and which President Johnson has pledged himself to continue.

If the Republicans had their way, there would be no test ban treaty, no wheat sales to Russia, no search for an agreement on disarmament, no honest and honorable striving for relaxed tensions.

Instead, the Republicans promise us "victory in freedom." That is less a pledge than a provocation. For the Republicans are completely silent on how their victory is to be achieved. We are left to guess whether the power of communism is to be broken in war, or is to be squeezed into submission by economic pressure, or is to be splintered into fragments by some magical political initiative.

Take four key issues to test the realism and the honesty of the Republican platform.

The Republicans pledge themselves to bring down the Berlin wall before they would agree to any settlement affecting Germany. But how is Russia to be compelled to tear down the wall?

And what concessions would Russia demand as compensation for the destruction of the hated wall? Again no answer. Apparently the Republicans think Russia is so weak and so frightened that the wall will come tumbling down at the first blast of the Republican trumpet.

Then the Republicans promise the liberation of Eastern Europe. But they fail to acknowledge the growing measure of freedom and independence that is slowly beginning to prevail in these countries. They have no specific program at all for hastening this process and making it more successful. Their rhetoric is not designed to bring freedom to Eastern Europe but to win votes in the American election by raising false hopes about the future of the satellite states.

Cuba—But How?

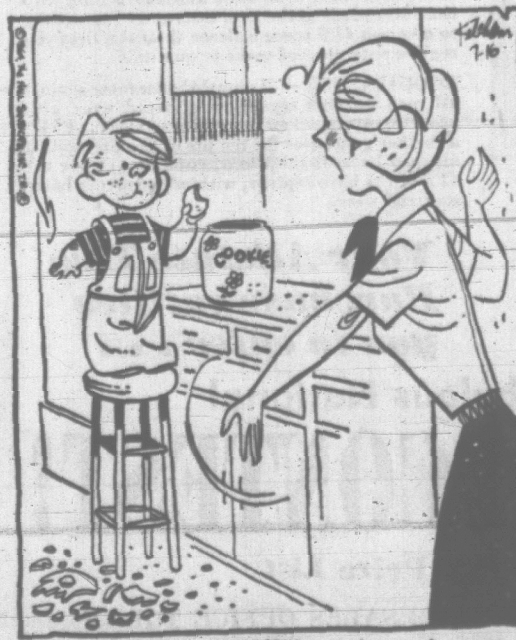

Next comes Cuba. The Republicans pledge themselves to organize an intensive boycott of Cuba without once explaining how our allies are to be coerced or cajoled into a policy of which they profoundly disapprove. It will be all the harder to get allied co-operation either from our friends in Latin America or our friends in NATO because the Republicans have pledged themselves to recognize a rival Cuban government in exile. They have pledged themselves to support a renewal of the Cuban civil war designed to overthrow the Castro regime by force of arms.

Finally there is the test case of Viet Nam. The Republicans talk big about what they will do in the future about various problems. But there is a war in Viet Nam right now, and not once do the Republicans undertake to widen the war by attacking North Viet Nam and China. After all the dark thunder we are left with no more than vague hints that no "privileged sanctuary" will be tolerated.

It must be said that truth and responsibility have found very precarious sanctuaries indeed in this Republican platform.

Yearly Routine Checkup

Many middle-aged people, when advised to have a yearly routine checkup, answer that they doubt if it would show anything of value, or if it were to show anything like a cancer or a diseased kidney or heart, or a high blood pressure, they say, "The doctor couldn't do much about it anyway."

Actually many of these people are mistaken. Hundreds of times I have seen a routine examination reveal a cancer every bit of which was soon cut out so that the person could recover perfectly. Sometimes a dangerously high blood pressure was lowered by good medicine; a serious diabetes, whose presence had not been suspected, was brought under control, and thereby the man's sight and kidney functions were saved; often a person who was dangerously stout, with his blood filling up with harmful chemicals, was induced to stop his over-eating, and thereby to reduce weight and greatly to lengthen his life.

In 1962, Dr. C. F. Tupper wrote an article summarizing the conditions he had found wrong during a survey of 1,221 professors at the University of Michigan. Most of these people were between 30 and 60 years of age. More than 85 per cent were men. The examination included a thorough history and physical examination, X-ray studies of the chest, the gallbladder, the gastrointestinal tract, electrocardiogram with the very necessary sigmoidoscopic examination of the lower end of the large bowel, also an examination of the eyes and teeth, a blood count; a determination of the amounts of blood sugar and blood cholesterol, and examination of the urine, and an electrocardiogram.

In three-fourths of the persons studied, some defect was discovered that had not previously been recognized but should have been. Cancers were found in 21. Diabetes was found in 81 persons, and suspected in 78 more. These persons usually had a blood-sugar reading a little higher than normal. A high blood pressure was found in 51.

and scars from a previous heart attack were found in nine. A dangerous glaucoma (a disease of the eyes which, if neglected, can easily lead to blindness) was found in four, and a beginning multiple sclerosis was found in three. This is an often serious disease in which several nerves scattered throughout the body can be injured. Gallstones (usually not needing an operation) were found in 55 of the teachers.

Ten of the professors had not been seen by a physician since they were discharged at the end of the First World War. More than a third had had no adequate supervision by a family physician; one had never had a complete examination in his lifetime; some 200 had had none for five years or more. One professor, who prided himself on not having seen a physician for 40 years, was over-weight, and surprised to find he had diabetes and a high blood pressure—an often dangerous combination of troubles.

It is a wise thing to have a checkup every year. What is sad is that most of us physicians haven't the time or the "set-up" to make a good general examination. Even in a big clinic, where an excellent examination can be had—usually it is had—a busy executive is often annoyed because he says the testing takes too long; on some days, he gets only one or two tests.

That a good examination can be performed in one day has been shown me by Dr. Charles E. Thompson and his group in Chicago. They ask the patient to show up in the early morning, fasting. They then take blood for the essential blood tests, including the very instructive red blood sedimentation rate—which, when very low and normal, tends to rule out serious disease. Then the man has his stomach X-rayed; perhaps he gets a bite to eat; then has his colon examined. He gets a good physical examination, probably with an electrocardiogram. Later in the day, one of the consultants sits down with him to tell what was found, and what should be done about it. Then the doctor answers the patient's questions.

This is the best set-up for a good examination of busy executives that I have heard of.

SHIP ISSUE

U.S. Trying To Regulate The World?

LONDON (Reuters)—Transport Minister Ernest Marples Wednesday night attacked the U.S. federal maritime commission for "acting as if the United States has the right to regulate the affairs of the world as a whole."

He asked the House of Commons to agree to a bill to combat the commission's demands that British shippers under penalty of fines up to £1,000 ($3,000) not to comply with American and other foreign shipping laws which they consider infringe British jurisdiction.

It also protects British shippers against the commission's demands for information about freight rates on the grounds they might be contrary to the commercial interests of the U.S.

The commission has been issuing orders to shipping lines to produce a wide range of documents and information relating to transactions, both inside and outside the U.S.

NOT RETALIATORY
Marples said the bill was not retaliatory but necessary by U.S. actions which encroached on British jurisdiction.

"The federal maritime commission claims the right to dictate to traders and shipowners in this country the form of contracts between them regardless of who owns the goods being shipped, who owns the ships and where the contract is being negotiated," Marples said.

He said the Americans passed their legislation without regard to the fact that there were "two ends to any piece of international trade."

CCF In Sask. Seeks Way To Meet Changing Times

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan CCF party was in a self-critical mood Wednesday, the first day of its three-day annual convention.

Out of self-criticism grew suggestions on how the party could mold its platform to meet the challenges of the 1960s and win the next provincial election.

The CCF was turned out of office in the April 22 provincial election by the Liberals after 20 years as Saskatchewan's government.

T. C. Douglas, national New Democratic Party leader, told the 900 delegates the CCF must attract new blood.

"A movement is always in danger of becoming ingrown," he said. "These are not the thirties. There is no depression. People today, especially young people, have different problems from those we faced when our movement was born."

Mr. Douglas, former CCF premier of Saskatchewan, said the CCF in its period of opposition should carefully prepare programs to meet the changes in society.

'NOT ENOUGH ACTION'
William Harding of Regina, party director of organization and education for the last 18 months, said that prior to the April 22 election there had been too much emphasis on building a good "paper organization" and not enough on building a good "action organization."

Mr. Harding said the CCF should place more emphasis on grass-roots individual contacts to spread its message, an area in which it traditionally has been strong.

He called on the party to stop apologizing for needing money to mount its campaigns. "I think there are 10,000 families in this province which would be willing to give us $10 a month for the next four years," he said.

Mr. Harding said the party should hire full-time organizers to begin working in the field for the next election and should set up a staff of researchers to gather facts on which to base educational programs.

Ralph Gilbert of Yorkton, provincial New Democratic Youth president, said failure of the NDY to attract Saskatchewan youth was one of the causes of the April 22 defeat.

He called for better liaison between the NDY and the parent CCF party. He said the NDY hopes to increase its activities among youth, especially on the two university campuses at Regina and Saskatoon.

Nazi Fugitive Held
VIENNA (Reuters)—Kurt Wiese, 50, former Gestapo man who jumped bail in Cologne 14 days ago during investigations into his alleged war-time murder of 100 Jews, was arrested Tuesday in Austria, it was reliably reported.

Bad Year for Fires
REGINA (UPI)—Saskatchewan Premier Ross Thatcher said Wednesday this is the worst year for forest fires in the history of the province. There are now some 400 fires burning throughout the north-land.

MEDICAL RATE HIKE

WINNIPEG (CP)—The doctor-operated Manitoba Medical Service today announced rate increases of an over-all 17.5 per cent for the majority of non-group subscribers, effective Sept. 1.

An MMS spokesman said the rate increase stemmed from a loss of $1,200,000 to doctors during 1963.

More Summer Blooming Shrubs

Here are a few more summer flowering shrubs for the skeptics, sparked by phone calls to ask why they were not included in Wednesday's list.

Well, it was intended as a partial list to stimulate gardeners to think along the line of summer blooms. It apparently did the trick, and here are further suggestions.

Four climbing shrubs: Clematis hybrids, polygamm (Fleece-vine), various honeysuckles and Jasminum officinale, the white summer jasmine.

Double and single deutzias (early July); philadelphus (the fragrant Mock-oranges), single, double and dwarf forms; and hypericums (some are called St. John's Wort), which come in half a dozen varieties to suit all gardens from small rock gardens to wild acreages. All have golden yellow blossoms and prominent stamens, the size of flower varying from a half-inch diameter to two and a half inches.

And why were roses not mentioned?

ROSES SELF-EVIDENT
Well, roses are self-evident on any street. If cared for by removal of old flowers and a bit of summer pruning, a half dozen rose varieties will give blooms from early June through to the end of September.

July is the month for cotoneasters to flower. Many people admire the evergreen varieties with long arching sprays of berries at Christmas time but overlook the dainty, pinky-white blossoms in summer.

In addition to the five and six-foot shrubs of cotoneaster there are kinds which lie on the rocks and root as they creep. These are also flowering now.

Bright pink Spirea bumalda "Anthony Waterer" and "Newmanni" (a dwarf form), are both summer blooming, as is Portugal laurel with fragrant spikes of white flowers, and the common California privet.

And don't overlook a long line of fine durable heathers for the summer months.

Bandit Gets $700

Widow Charged
MESSOLONGI, Greece (AP)—A 60-year-old widow, accused of causing the death of 22 persons by poisoning, was arrested Wednesday and charged with manslaughter by negligence. Mrs. Maria Aspotolopoulos spread a traditional mourning dish with poisonous insecticide by mistake, instead of powdered sugar.

Crime Appointment
VANCOUVER (CP)—John Fornataro, a member of the faculty at the University of B.C. has been appointed special adviser to the United Nations in treatment of criminals and prevention of crime. He will take a year's leave of absence from his duties as assistant professor of social work at UBC to take up his UN post in Tokyo.

An armed bandit Wednesday escaped from a Royal Bank of Canada branch here with about $700. Police said the man pointed a revolver at a teller and shoved a paper bag toward her demanding it be filled with large denomination bills.

Medicare Talks Begin Next Week

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal and provincial health ministers will begin detailed study next week of the future of hospital insurance and other joint health programs, and initiate discussion on the Hall royal commission recommendations for a comprehensive medical care program for Canada.

Federal Health Minister Judy LaMarsh has asked provincial health ministers to come to the two-day conference, which opens Monday, armed with statements on their province's preliminary views on the commission recommendations.

While the deliberations will be held behind closed doors, medicare statements may be made public.

The medical care question has been placed first on the agenda of the conference, which was called before the Hall commission reported, to follow up discussions at the federal-provincial prime ministers conferences here last fall and at Quebec in the spring.

Apart from medical care, federal authorities expect a major discussion on the question of extending the present hospital insurance program, in which Ottawa pays half the cost, to cover hospital care of mental and tubercular patients.

The emphasis here seems to be on filling in existing health programs, such as hospital insurance, and pressing forward with the Canada Pension Plan before tackling medical care.

However, federal authorities indicated they have a list of priorities on the medical care recommendations and hope to compare that with the priorities of the provinces. Expanding medical education appears to be among the top federal priorities.

Two other shared programs—hospital construction grants and health grants to the provinces—also are on the agenda.

Federalism Fight Waged In House

B.C., Quebec MPs In Opposition Over Ottawa Education Assistance

OTTAWA (CP)—The government's student loan scheme bogged down in the Commons Wednesday as an English-French split crystallized on the board issue of federal aid to education.

Two French-speaking Conservative MPs broke with their party colleagues and announced they will vote against the bill in its present form.

Reni Paul (Berthier - Maskinonge-Delanaudiere) and Louis-Joseph Pigeon (Joliette - L'Assomption-Montcalm) joined the 13 Creditists in arguing that the federal loans would interfere with provincial jurisdiction over education.

English-speaking MPs replied that federal action is needed to cope with a national crisis in higher education. The universities' problems transcend provincial financial resources and provincial borders, they argued.

Today the Commons enters its third day of debate on second reading—approval in principle—of the bill, which provides for federal guarantees of bank loans of up to $1,000 annually to needy university students.

WILL OPT OUT

The government will pay 5% per-cent interest on the loans for the duration of the borrower's studies and for six months afterward. Quebec has announced it will opt out of the plan and accept a direct grant of compensation for lost benefits.

Opposition MPs indicated Wednesday they will introduce several amendments in committee of the whole and the debate is expected to continue next week. Friday's sitting has been set aside for study of spending estimates.

Wednesday's debate boiled down to a confrontation of "federalist" and "provincialist" attitudes to Confederation.

The "federalist" view was argued in denial by Ron Basford (L-Vancouver Burrard), who called for a strong central government.

"I am becoming alarmed at the constant attempts we see here to whittle away the power of the central Parliament," the 32-year-old lawyer said.

WEAKNESS NOT WANTED

"We (British Columbia residents) are not interested in a central government that can only raise taxes and run the post office or contribute to the United Nations."

"If the forces within Canada are such as to succeed in leaving the central government weak and emasculated, then I suggest that an ever-increasing number of people in my province are going to begin questioning their relationship with the weak central government."

"The Parliament of Canada must have the ability and the willingness to deal with education as a national affair. This bill is a good beginning."

Mr. Basford called for a larger federal role in dealing with the problems of education, welfare and economic development. The "provincialist" view was argued by Mr. Pigeon and Mr. Paul.

They said the provincial governments are closer to the people and better equipped than the federal government to assist and control education. The construction clearly gave the provinces exclusive jurisdiction over the whole field.

PUBLIC REJECTS AID

They said public opinion in Quebec and even university students have rejected federal aid to education on principle.

Mr. Pigeon said some Liberal backbenchers have called for a federal department of education and he wondered if the student loans represented the first step in that direction. Liberal governments had always strived to centralize powers in Ottawa.

The only way to stop the separatist movement in Quebec was to give the provincial government more autonomy. A stronger Quebec would mean a stronger Canada.

Charles Arthur Gauthier (Creditiste-Roberval) said the provinces would have sufficient financial resources to boost aid to education if only they received a larger share of direct taxes.

FIRST GERMAN 'PEACE CORPS' GRADUATED

BONN (UPI)—The first 55 "peaceful German soldiers" to be sent to help developing nations were given a farewell reception by President Heinrich Luebbe today.

The 55 are the first members of West Germany's Development Service—styled on the American Peace Corps—to complete their training and be sent abroad. They are assigned to Afghanistan, Libya and Tanganyika.

"You should go as partners of your hosts," Luebbe told them, "because mutual confidence is the best basis for co-operation, and without it nothing can be achieved."

"Development. Service recruits want only to help, they seek neither fame nor to establish a German sphere of influence... you are peaceful German soldiers."

Fishboats Collide

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—Four men were reported missing after a British fishing vessel sank following a collision with a Polish fishing boat off the east coast of Scotland. Radio reports picked up here said the British vessel Sirius, 43 tons, collided with the Polish government-owned Zieba, a 185-ton ship. The Zieba picked up three of the Sirius' crew.

Northwest Passage Dream Trip Set

The 107-foot ocean-going yacht Northland Princess is due to leave Vancouver Friday to test the commercial feasibility of the Northwest Passage.

Heading the Arctic expedition is ice expert Scott Alexander and newspaper columnist Gerald Waring, whose articles appear regularly in the Times.

They have parlayed $100 of their own money into a many-thousand-dollar venture—an attempt to be the first to navigate the Northwest Passage and return during the summer season.

Trip was made possible by donation of the yacht owned by Capt. Harry Terry of Northland Navigation and money contributions.

FATHER-SON TRIP

Commanding the converted naval Fairmile is Alexander's brother, Capt. Dick Alexander. Also along are Scott Alexander Jr., 16, and Dick Alexander Jr., 23.

Plans call for the ship to make the return trip from Vancouver to Frobisher Bay in Baffin Land. The course includes a visit to Resolute Bay, only 1,000 miles from the North Pole.

Scott Alexander hopes to prove his thesis that with modern aids to navigation and aerial ice reconnaissance, the Canadian Arctic can be used by normal ocean-going ships as a shorter route between Europe and the Orient.

Discrimination Charge Probed

Victoria Labor Council will investigate charges that a union leader was refused service in a downtown hotel because he was talking about unionism.

Bartenders' Union secretary Jan Hennekam told council Wednesday night he was talking in a non-union house with another union man.

The second man was not an employee of the hotel.

"Does a bartender or his employer have the right to tell his patrons about what subject can be discussed in his place?" asked Mr. Hennekam.

"Where is our human right and our freedom of speech?" Council's legislative committee will seek information on whether the alleged discrimination has violated provincial or federal statutes.

Council voted to continue support of Victoria Visitors' Bureau, and pay the $25 fee.

President Robert Barrie reported on a one-day convention called by the B.C. Federation of Labour July 10 in Vancouver.

He said the 74 attending unions discussed the Port Alberni strike and other labor problems.

Council will continue to cooperate with the International Co-operation Year committee and give consideration to any request for assistance.

Janitors Protest

The janitors are protesting the appointment of George Martyn as head janitor at Lake Trail School over another union member with seniority.

The school board, which met Monday night, felt seniority only counted when all other things were equal.

MYSTERY BUG KILLS BABIES

BRISBANE (Reuters) — Sixteen babies—most less than a year old—have died in a mysterious epidemic which is baffling doctors here, it was reported Thursday. At first it was thought the babies suffocated, but this theory was discounted by experts. Death was sudden.

Carpenters' Union business agent James Moffat told Council the half-cent per hour payment to a carpenters' apprenticeship fund—as obtained in the recent contract negotiations—will help attract young men to the trade.

He said that in the past, many contractors never had an apprentice carpenter.

He said the union has 28 directly indentured to the union, so they can be moved around where there is work available.

"Then can be given more diversified training," he said. "This is what the fund will help."

Woman Spared Life In Prison

VANCOUVER (CP)—Margaret McNeil of Vancouver was declared Canada's first woman habitual criminal here Wednesday.

However, Magistrate Douglas Hume said he did not think preventive detention was warranted in her case. "I am not satisfied in this case that the protection of the public is needed."

The law provides a maximum of life imprisonment for persons convicted on habitual criminal charges.

The 35-year-old woman is to be transferred here from Kingston, Ont., to serve a two-year sentence for possession of drugs.

Magistrate Hume said her record dating back to 1946 includes convictions for vagrancy, prostitution and possession and trafficking of drugs.

A spokesman for the city prosecutor's office said the effect of being a habitual criminal but not being sentenced to preventive custody is not known at present.

"There is a doubt in the law as to whether or not this evidence at the person's hearing could be used in the future if the Crown decided to again apply for preventive custody," he said.

PROPOSES ENTIRE COUNCIL QUIT

Vernon Mayor Fights Back

VERNON (CP)—Mayor Ellwood Rice turned on his accusers Wednesday and proposed that the entire city council should resign and go to the people.

He said only a full-fledged election for mayor and all six aldermen would clear the air after the charges that have been levelled in council chambers.

The aldermen voted 5-1 Monday to demand his resignation for lack of leadership, lack of original ideas and lack of interest in the city's welfare. He was accused of "inability, ignorance, arrogance and incompetence."

When the mayor refused to quit, council voted to cut his salary from $300-a month to $1.

Wednesday, the mayor asked the entire council to resign and told reporters later he wants "an early decision on this, following their consideration."

Polled individually after the meeting, five of the six aldermen said they had no intention of following the mayor's advice. The sixth said he would quit if the majority of council wanted to go too.

Outside Control Of Unions Hit

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Andrew Thompson, a candidate for the leadership of the Ontario Liberal party, has called for a special session of the Ontario legislature to amend the Ontario Labor Relations Act to reduce United States control of Canadian unions.

Mr. Thompson used the current strife between the three Toronto daily newspapers and the International Typographical Union (ITU) to illustrate his point at a meeting Wednesday night of the Kitchener Liberal Association.

In Toronto, Robert McCormack, president of the Toronto Typographical Union, denied the charge of international control of the Toronto local.

Mr. Thompson said: "For the people of Ontario, one fundamental question is the unnecessary interference of American union bosses in our affairs. Whether it is interference from foreign management or foreign unions is not the point. These problems should be solved by Canadians."

"We are told agreement has been reached on three separate occasions between the bargaining representatives of the Toronto Typographical Union and the publishers during the last 22 months only to be vetoed by an American hierarchy comfortably ensconced in Colorado Springs. One gets the impression these Colorado bosses are making suckers of us in Canada."

"If our legislation does not provide for us being masters of our own house, whether with regard to foreign management or foreign labor, then Premier Robarts should call a special session of the legislature to amend our Labor Relations Act."

Mr. McCormack said his reaction to Mr. Thompson's statement "is that it is a pack of lies."

He said the union was given the name International in 1869 to accommodate the entry of Canadian affiliates and local members have expressed support of the International through choice and by democratic procedures. He said both Canadians and U.S. citizens are members of the International executive.

Congo Answers Snub By Boycotting Parley

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Congo's President Joseph Kasavubu and Premier Moise Tshombe will boycott the African summit conference in Cairo because an unwelcome sign has been put up for Tshombe.

Kasavubu and Tshombe decided to stay home from the meeting of the Organization of African Unity after some African leaders vowed they would not sit at the same table with the former Katanga secessionist leader.

Many African nationalists still are bitter about Tshombe's links with the Belgians during the Katanga secession and the slaying of leftist Patrice Lumumba. The Congo's first premier, while in Tshombe's custody.

In a move to further its goal of national reconciliation, Tshombe's government announced the release of Antoine Gizenga, Communist-supported leader of the 1961 separatist regime in Stanleyville and self-styled political heir to Lumumba. Gizenga had been detained for 2½ years on Bula-Bemba Island at the mouth of the Congo River.

The government announcement made no mention of Gizenga's plans or any future political role for him.

DIED IN ARMS OF WIFE

Truth Kept from 'Beaver'

FREDERICTON, N.B. (UPI)—The late Lord Beaverbrook toasted Lady Beaverbrook with champagne before he died in her arms at their British country home June 9, according to an article in the Atlantic Advocate which reached newsstands today.

Brig. Michael Wardell, publisher of the monthly magazine, disclosed the intimate details of Beaverbrook's last marriage, his battle with cancer and eventual death, in the July issue. Wardell is an intimate family friend and former vice-chairman of the Beaverbrook newspapers.

Wardell's article, documented by selections from Lady Beaverbrook's personal diary, relates that Lady Beaverbrook attempted to hide from Beaverbrook that he was dying of cancer.

VOWED TO PROTECT
"I vowed I would nurse him and protect him and shield him at all costs from the terrible truth," Lady Beaverbrook said in her diary.

Beaverbrook had told his wife that doctors had informed him he was suffering from cancer of the prostate gland. Lady Beaverbrook insisted, he be re-examined.

"Following the examination that afternoon, he rushed in with such a gleam of hopefulness and joy that I was sure we had hidden the horror from him, for the time being at least," she writes. "The doctors played their parts convincingly."

The doctors had told him his growth was non-malignant, but that he should take estrogen injections as a precaution. They told Lady Beaverbrook privately he might last two years.

That day in the summer of 1962, Lady Beaverbrook wrote: "It did my heart good to see what an excellent dinner my darling made for the first time for many, many a day. Exhausted by the strain and emotion, I put him to bed by 10 o'clock, content it was really dreadful."

That fall, Beaverbrook was attacked by gout and oedema. In January of 1963, cardiographs showed his heart to be "extremely fatigued, very overstrained," the story added.

Beaverbrook died in his wife's arms at 4:15 on the afternoon of June 9, slipping into unconsciousness peacefully, the article said.

Rocks Short On Polish; Nanaimo Just as Dead

Irish Clinch Playoff Spot; McNeill, Foster Pace Attack

Victoria 7, Nanaimo 4

By HAL MALONE

It's official now. Nanaimo is dead. And Victoria Shamrocks are assured of an Inter-City Lacrosse League playoff position.

The circumstances leading to these facts of life came to pass at Memorial Arena Wednesday night. But they have hardly been a state secret since the head-butting season opened.

The Shamrocks have muscle and hustle. And usually more finesse and poise than they demonstrated Wednesday.

Nanaimo has some plays that are flagrantly offensive but few artistically offensive plays. Their defence has more gaps, than a topless swimsuit. Their goalie is great at coping with shots around his feet but hardly impenetrable at howitzers in the range of his Adam's apple.

Without John Ferguson and Tom McVie they are missing some 95 goals they direly need. This pair never hurt Nanaimo on defence either, being able and willing to take a positive stand or a mean swing at foot-loose forwards.

For a team supposedly capable of crushing Nanaimo with utter ease, the Shamrocks excelled in mediocrity in the early stages Wednesday.

They avoided all contact with the Nanaimo net for 23 minutes and four seconds, Jim McNeill put them in business after Nanaimo had put him in business.

Caught with their checks down, the visitors let McNeill take up untended residence in front of the crease. Banana Nose reciprocated like John Dillinger coming on a bank with the windows open after working hours.

His tally served only to knot things at 1-1, Bill Russell having put Nanaimo ahead on a clothesline pass from wee Terry Davis.

Moments later Russell and Davis collaborated on an identical foray, nullifying a goal by Victoria's Bill Bradley.

Nanaimo More Pesky Than Poised

Bradley's goal could have been his fourth. He missed three tries when he was so close to goalie Alf Shuker he could have counted the warts on the latter's tonsils. What Bradley couldn't do was ring the cash register.

After the mid-game rest for tea and crumpets, McNeill snatched a rebound with one hand and with his great arm strength, snapped a one-hander behind the falling Shuker.

Functioning with peckishness rather than poise, Nanaimo took advantage of a Victoria penalty to feed Russell. Aim, Fire, Goal. No. 3 for the bad guys.

FOSTER PERSISTENT

Enter Reg Foster, not exactly one of Victoria's scoring luminaries. This night Foster, eluding his check, fired and was foiled. But with ultimate perseverance he pursued his rebound, doggedly resisted several attempts at decapitation and drove home the goal that sent Victoria ahead to stay.

Foster's flair shredded Nanaimo permanently. What was left of their esprit de corps came unglued when Gordon Lawlor was assessed seven minutes in penalties to five for Don Ashbee. The unbalanced levies were questionable insofar as Ashbee showed the initiative in attempting to rearrange Lawlor's physog.

SHUKER WAS BUSY

In the final lap it was all Victoria. McNeill, Barry Ashbee and Foster popped in goals while other Victorians rattled shots off the Nanaimo posts.

Percentage-wise, Nanaimo was superior to Victoria, hitting on four goals out of 30 shots. The

'PROBABLE' COACH

Imlach Sees Pilous Here

Rudy Pilous will "probably" coach the Victoria Maple Leafs in the Western Hockey League. The Maple Leafs will consist of the personnel of the defunct Denver Invaders, WHL kings last season, and "other personnel" as the parent Toronto organization sees fit.

George "Punch" Imlach, general manager-coach of the Stanley Cup champion Toronto Maple Leafs, made these statements in an exclusive telephone interview with the Victoria Daily Times today.

Fresh from a Hawaiian holiday, Imlach told the Times from Vancouver he would be in Victoria "Saturday or early next week."

He said he expects to meet Toronto vice-president Harold Ballard here.

The Toronto team pulled out of Denver after a financially disastrous season. Leaf losses were estimated at between $60,000 and $100,000 at Denver.

A GOOD TEAM

Imlach was "delighted" to hear that there has been a steady stream of applications for season tickets to Victoria games. "We'll give Victoria a good team, you can bet on it," Imlach said.

Imlach said the Leafs had withheld an announcement that Pilous would be the Victoria coach "because we have not tied up all the details yet."

Pilous coached the Invaders last year and is well regarded both by Toronto and knowledgeable hockey people in Canada and the U.S.

Asked if Victoria could expect any players from the Toronto team, say Terry Sawchuk, acquired in the NHL draft, Imlach chuckled and said "not a chance."

Vancouver-Rider Toronto Winner

TORONTO (CP)—Barbara, a four-year-old filly, got the ride of her life from one of North America's youngest jockeys Wednesday and came from last place to win the $12,700 Nassau Stakes at Woodbine.

With 16-year-old Wayne Harris beating a steady tattoo on her hide, Barbara moved from last place in the 12-horse field and returned $47.70, $15.70 and $8.40.

For jockey Harris, a riding sensation from Vancouver, it was his first stakes victory.

CONFUSION ABOUNDS

Written Offer Asked of Leafs

VANCOUVER (CP)—Confusion again surrounds an offer by Toronto Maple Leafs to build an $8,000,000 sports coliseum in the downtown area.

City council passed a resolution June 30 asking Leafs to formally put their offer in writing. Several days later Mayor William Rathie said he telephoned Leaf president Stafford Smythe to say city representatives wanted to discuss the offer in detail.

The mayor reported Smythe said he would be in Victoria in two weeks to discuss the operation of the Leafs' new Western Hockey League team in the B.C. capital, and would meet with Vancouver representatives at that time.

"That's the first I've heard of that," said Harold Ballard, Leafs' vice-president, in a telephone interview from Toronto Wednesday.

"There must be a misunderstanding somewhere," Ballard said. "We've never been asked to put it in writing... we'd have no hesitation in doing it," he added.

The Toronto organization has offered to build a 20,000-seat coliseum if the city donates the necessary land. Ratepayers will have to approve the land donation and a special referendum is expected in early fall.

B.C. Native Ousted In Clay Courts Play

RIVER FOREST, Ill. (AP)—Favored Chuck McKinley easily swept into the quarter-finals but Arthur Ashe, Negro star from UCLA, was upset in third-round play of the national clay courts tennis tournament Wednesday.

Ashe, sixth-ranked in this tourney and also sixth-ranked in the U.S., was eliminated by South Africa's Abe Segal, 6-1, 6-4.

Top-seeded McKinley, from San Antonio, Tex., and favored to capture his third straight clay courts crown, toyed with William Bond, University of Arizona star from La Jolla, Calif., for a 6-2, 6-0 triumph.

Bucs to Get Bruins, Leafs

PORTLAND (AP)—Two major-league hockey teams will play Portland Buckaroos in pre-season games here, the Portland Hockey Club has announced.

The opponents will be the Boston Bruins on Sunday night, Sept. 27, and Toronto Maple Leafs, Stanley Cup champions, on Tuesday, Oct. 6.

... MAKE PLANS FOR 1968

He estimated that 15 members of the team—a fourth-place finisher at Innsbruck—have professional prospects.

Jack Nicklaus

NEVER FEAR A TRAP

MERELY BECAUSE A SAND TRAP IS TERMED A "HAZARD" DOESN'T MEAN A BLAST SHOULD BE MORE DIFFICULT THAN A DRIVE, A CHIP OR A PUTT.

IF APPROACHED WITH CONFIDENCE INSTEAD OF FEAR, IT'S SIMPLY A MATTER OF USING A SMOOTH, EVEN STROKE AND HITTING A COUPLE OF INCHES BEHIND THE BALL.

IN THIS RESPECT, I'VE IMPROVED MY OWN SAND SHOT THIS YEAR. I'M DOWN TO WHERE I'M SWINGING VERY EASILY AND FIRMLY. THE RESULT HAS BEEN GREATER CONFIDENCE AND A FULLER COMMAND OF THE SHOT.

Open Kings Just 'Two Other Guys'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jack Nicklaus opened defence of his PGA golf championship today, apparently unshaken by the threat of the game's two newest rockets, Tony Lema and Ken Venturi.

"They have their hot streaks and I have mine," said the 210-pound pro.

"To me, they are just two other guys in the field. I play my game. I win some. I lose some. If I'm lucky, I win a big one."

Reds Release John Temple

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati Reds gave veteran infielder John Temple his unconditional release as a player Wednesday but said he would remain as an inactive member of the club to handle special assignments.

Temple was released to make room on the roster for catcher Don Pavlich. Pavlich was bought Tuesday from the Reds' San Diego Club of the Pacific Coast League to bolster the catching staff after Johnny Edwards was sidelined with a sore arm.

Dineen Purchased By Seattle Totems

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League Tuesday announced the purchase of rightwinger Bill Dineen, 31, from Montreal Canadiens of the National League.

Keith Allen, Seattle general manager, said the addition of Dineen "will be a great benefit up front . . . I played with him in Detroit and he's the type of hockey player who goes both ways and can help any club."

Lions' Kapp Goes 'Ltd.'

VANCOUVER (CP) — B.C. Lions' quarterback Joe Kapp has formed a company, but nobody is saying what business he is in or for what reason.

The report that Kapp had gone into business was contained in the B.C. Gazette, a weekly publication that records legal happenings in the province.

It said simply that Joe Kapp Ltd., has initial capitalization of $10,000 and is authorized to engage in a wide variety of enterprises. The company, according to the Gazette, can deal in sporting goods, in advertising, in the contracting business or the garment business.

Kapp could not be reached for comment Wednesday as he was en route to Ottawa with the Lions for an exhibition game tonight against the Rough Riders.

His lawyer, Allan McEachern, who handled the setting up of the company, would not comment except to say "it is a better vehicle for carrying on business."

A city lawyer said the formation of the company may be a method Kapp is using to cut down on his income-tax payments.

The lawyer said "if a person's income is sufficient it can mean substantial savings if he forms a company and works for it."

"A company pays a flat 21 per cent income tax on a maximum of $35,000 of taxable income and an individual often pays substantially more," he said.

Complacency Could Hurt Admits Leos' Dave Skrien

OTTAWA (CP) — Coach Dave Skrien says the biggest problem facing his British Columbia Lions this season will be overconfidence. He also has a beef about the weather.

"We're the Western champions and all the other clubs will be shooting for us," said Skrien, who led the defending Western Football Conference champions into the capital for tonight's exhibition game with Ottawa Rough Riders.

"Our biggest job will be maintaining our desire, and not getting too complacent," he told a reporter.

Skrien claims the weather has hampered his team's progress. "We're not as far advanced in conditioning as we were last year. That's because of the cold, rainy weather we've been having out in B.C."

"However, we're more set in more positions than we were last year at this time."

Barnes, a Canadian, looks like a good bet for defensive tackle, Skrien said.

Skrien expects Lions' toughest opposition in the West to come from Calgary and Winnipeg, while in the East, he picks defending Grey Cup champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats to finish first with Ottawa a close second.

He says only three positions on the Lions' roster definitely are not yet settled. He still needs a fullback, a tight end and a defensive tackle, but he figures he has the personnel for the job.

John Hudson and Jim McNaughton, both imports, are the top candidates for the tight end spot, while another import, Don Vicic, is given the best chance for the fullback job. Emery

SHAW SCYTHES DOZEN FROM ROUGHIE ROSTER

REGINA (CP) — Coach Bob Shaw of Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Football Conference believes in doing things in round numbers.

Shaw announced today that he has pared the Riders' roster by six Canadians and six imports, leaving 21 Canadians and 22 imports in camp.

Only one holdover was included in the cuts, veteran Canadian fullback Roy Cameron who reported to camp still suffering from the effects of injuries received in a car crash last month.

The imports cut include quarterback Larry Harp of Cincinnati, tackle Jim Patterson from Grand Rapids, Mich., of the United Football League, centre John Brennan and halfback Jack Clark of California Polytech, guard Leroy Blackful of Eastern Illinois and halfback Will Fennal of Montana State.

Careless Riding Grounds The Shoe

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Jockey Bill Shoemaker was suspended Wednesday for five days by the Hollywood Park board of stewards for careless riding and will miss Saturday's $162,100 Hollywood Gold Cup handicap.

Shoemaker, current leading winner at the meeting, was suspended from July 17 through July 23 "for careless riding causing interference entering the stretch while astride Pooped Papa in the fifth race" Tuesday.

Pooped Papa was part of the favored 8-5 entry with Bellchey and finished third.

No Pro Dough For Emerson

MONTREAL (CP) — Tennis star Roy Emerson already has turned down two lucrative offers to turn professional and still doubts that he'll ever become a pro, despite his Wimbledon championship and other laurels acquired this year.

Like most amateurs, he's already living quite well, thank you.

"The Wimbledon title hasn't changed anything," said the 28-year-old Australian ace Wednesday. "It may increase the offers but I doubt I'll ever turn pro."

Emerson officially receives about $15 expense money a day while he's in Montreal for the first round of the Davis Cup tie against Canada, which starts Friday with two singles matches. But it's what he earns as a non-smoking cigarette salesman that keeps him in his bank manager's favor.

"I had a pro offer three years ago along with Rod Laver," he explained. "We both turned it down but after Laver won the grand slam in 1962 the money was too good for him to keep refusing."

"Then I was approached last year with a better offer but at the same time my company gave me a very good three-year contract I decided to continue as an amateur and I'm sure I'll stay that way even though I won at Wimbledon."

Hopman began easing off Wednesday from his strict schedule of rigid workouts to let his players rest somewhat for Friday's matches, which will send Emerson against either Francois Bodout or Keith Carpenter of Canada and John Newcombe against the other Canadian.

FATHER AILING

Russ Won't See O'Hara

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom O'Hara, who captured the track fancy of the U.S. with his successful but unorthodox running style in one-mile races, has withdrawn from the U.S. team that will meet Russia's best in Los Angeles July 25-26.

O'Hara, who set an indoor record 3:56.4 during the winter, was quoted by Dan Ferris as saying he preferred to stay in Chicago where his father suffered a heart attack two weeks ago.

O'Hara, along with Jean Dyrrol Burleson of Oregon, qualified for the U.S. team that will face the Soviet Union's top track and field athletes in this Olympic year.

O'Hara, a 135-pounder was unbeaten during the indoor season, but won only one of eight outdoor meetings with Burleson.

Together they formed possibly the best one-two punch that United States ever has had in the 1,500 metres, the so-called metric mile, going into the Olympic competitions.

Earlier in the day, in Boston, John Thomas said he may have to withdraw from the Olympics if he did not get a job, Thomas.

FACES NEW TRIAL

Release Ordered For 'Dr. Sam'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Dr. Samuel Sheppard, convicted of slaying his wife, has been ordered released by a court from Ohio Penitentiary after serving nearly 10 years of a life term. But he must face a new trial.

And the former osteopath, only months away from possible parole, appears to have another battle coming up even for temporary freedom pending the new trial.

A U.S. district court Judge, Carl A. Weinman in Dayton, ruled Wednesday that Sheppard, 40, was denied his constitutional rights in his 1954 trial in Cleveland. The trial resulted in his conviction in the 'bludgeon slaying of Marilyn Sheppard. Judge Weinman said Sheppard's custody is "void" and if Cuyahoga County or the state takes no action within 60 days the release becomes final.

Weinman's 86 - page decision denounced the coverage given the case by three Cleveland newspapers and some national commentators and columnists.

The judge, acting on a request for a writ of habeas corpus, ordered Sheppard's release under $10,000 bond.

John Corrigan, Cuyahoga County (Cleveland) prosecutor, who handled the state's case in the trial 10 years ago, said he will ask for a stay on execution to prevent Sheppard's release. Ohio Attorney-General William Saxbe said the decision would be appealed.

Weinman said Sheppard's constitutional rights were violated by these actions:

1. Failure of the trial judge to grant a change of venue for a continuance due to the great amount of publicity.
2. Inability of maintaining impartial jurors.
3. Failure of trial Judge Edward Blythin, now dead, to disqualify himself although there was uncertainty as to his impartiality.
4. Improper introduction of lie detector evidence at the trial.
5. Unauthorized communications to the jury during deliberations.

"If ever there was a trial by newspaper, this is a perfect example," Weinman said. The judge said the Cleveland Press "took upon itself the role of accuser, judge and jury." He called it "the most insidious violation."

SOLARIUM TO BENEFIT FROM WATER SKI MEET

Some of the children at the Queen Alexandra Solarium will see the first western Canadian open water-skiing championships ever held on Vancouver Island.

But all of them will benefit from it. The Solarium Junior League and the Victoria Aqua Ski Club are staging the show at Shawnigan Lake July 25 and 26.

Proceeds are in aid of the Solarium. The program will include slalom skiing, jumping and trick displays, including barefoot and pyramid skiing.

The action runs from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day. About 100 skiers from the Pacific Northwest will compete in the championship meet.

The seven ocean escorts of the Fourth Canadian Escort Squadron will present a white ensign to St. Andrew's Cathedral, Honolulu, when they visit the Hawaiian Islands next month.

The Pacific Command ships are currently on a Pacific Command training cruise for officer cadets enlisted in the regular officer training program.

When a similar cruise took cadets to Pearl Harbor last summer, the dean suggested a white ensign be placed in the cathedral to complement an RAF ensign.

The ensign to be presented has been in possession of the cadets during their training program and has been paraded by them in various Pacific ports.

Tory to Press Racial Issue

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson returns late today from the Commonwealth prime ministers conference in London to face questions in the Commons about what he plans to do in Canada to reinforce his plea for racial equality in the Commonwealth.

Mr. Pearson is expected to report to the Commons Friday on the London talks.

His address to the conference Monday emphasizing the need to recognize racial equality in fact as well as in principle sparked questions immediately in the Commons about Indians and Eskimos in Canada's far north, and about immigration procedures.

Government spokesmen denied there is any racial discrimination involved in either question.

Gene Rheame (PC—Northwest Territories) asked whether the far-northern Indians and Eskimos will be given the right to vote. All Indians and Eskimos do have the right to vote in the Yukon Territory and in the district of Mackenzie, the most westerly of the Northwest Territories.

The district of Keewatin, representing the eastern part of far northern continental Canada, and the district of Franklin, which covers the Arctic Islands, have no firm or elected government.

FIVE ARE APPOINTED

The Northern Territories are governed by a federally-appointed commissioner and a council, of which four members are elected for the Mackenzie district, and five are appointed by the federal government.

Of the nearly 23,000 people living in the Northwest Territories, 14,000 live in the Mackenzie River district.

Mr. Rheame, serving his first term in Parliament, has been pressing for recognition of both the Yukon territory and the Northwest Territories as new provinces of Canada.

On the immigration question, Paul Martineau (PC—Pontiac-Temiscamingue) asked Wednesday whether the Immigration Act and regulations will be revised "in the light of the hopes expressed by the prime minister in London on behalf of Canada regarding racial equality in the Commonwealth."

Immigration minister Tremblay said there is no discrimination involved in the Immigration Act.

"The sole criteria in the choice of immigrants are education and the possession of a trade, profession or craft," Mr. Tremblay said. "I do not think there is any need to amend the Immigration Act to abolish discrimination. Amendments for certain other matters will be introduced."

Gilbey's state
the correct garnish
for gin-and-tonic

Some gins have rather strong flavouring. Others are utterly tasteless. Gilbey's London Dry has a perfect balance for a successful gin-and-tonic. A dry flavour that has been the international favourite since 1873. Quite a long time.

A lime slice sits handsomely on the edge of a gin-and-tonic. (Or it can be immersed). The lime adds colour for your eye, a touch of tartness to your drink.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — This is the season when everybody everywhere... including the people of New York City... knocks New York City.

If they're nothing to knock, they make up something.

This year, of course, we don't have to make up things. But there are many delightfully meritorious facets of our metropolis which make this the world's wonder city.

And as a little pat on the back, I'm handing out, with the help of American Express, some "Earl Wilson/Benny Guest" award for the most extraordinary hospitality and old-fashioned friendliness. They go from the slight to the sublime.

P. J. Clark's: Because Dan Lavezzo admits girls in slacks or shorts, guys in sports shirts—and naked dogs.

Hotel Americana: For special attentions which enable men customers, for example, to get a haircut on Sunday via room service.

The New York Hilton: For adding glamor with its luxurious penthouse (only $500 a day, too) for weddings and things, and for its simulated outdoor sidewalk cafe in the enclosed Rue des Gourmets.

$1.80 FEAST

The Automat which now features Rudy Vallee's menu—he has a feast for $1.80... Jack Dempsey's, because Jack is there.

21 Club: For showing customers through its wine cellar.

The Volcan: For its sensational chicken pot pie.

Toots Shor should get a special award from the distillers for his famous statement, "Whisky never hurt anybody."

Our patient policemen, per-spring phone operators, and generally helpful cab drivers... salesgirls and salesmen doormen... countermen... bartenders.

Teddy's: Because Sal Cucinotta gave me a party—reason enough!... Tavern on the Green, New York's Bois de Boulogne.

Sou Chan (at the House of)... Seafare of the Aegean for its atmosphere and seafare... Pierre au Tunnel... Charles V... Sid Allen's at Englewood Cliffs, N.J... Steak Pit, Paramount... the little French restaurant... Cafe Brittany, Tous Va Bien, Ida's, the Fleur de Lys... that undiscovered Chinese spot, the Old Shanghai on B'way near 53rd St.

The stay-up spots: Max Asmas Stage Door Delicatessen, the Hawaii-Kai, the Carnegie Deli, the Brasserie, Lindy's, the Trattoria.

SWANKIEST

El Morocco, swankiest night club in the world... Copacabana and Latin Quarter, greatest bargain show spots anywhere... for luxury luncheon and dining Four Seasons, Forum of the 12 Caesars, Tower Suite, Trader Vic's, Chez Vito, Little Club, Sardi's, Luchow's (dare you to eat the baked beef), Gallagher's and up high in the sky, the Rainbow Room... The International Cafe... Chateau-Madrid.

And if there's any reason any of these shouldn't get an award, speak now or forever hold your peace. (There'll be more later.)

THE MIDNIGHT EARL

Sue Lyon has been given bigger billing in "Night of the Giana" (The rest of the cast had to give it OK)... Are Edie Adams and Marty Mills planning an elopement very soon?... Frank Sinatra attended the Count Basie-Joe Bushkin opening at Basin St. East (entering and exiting through the back door)... Chita Rivera's off to England to do a TV show with the Beatles... A prominent TV-stage-screen actor just paid off a five-figure gambling debt he incurred in 1958... Alfred Hitchcock says he first spotted his "Marnie" star, Sean Connery, when the latter was a chorus boy in a London production of "South Pacific."

Rick Jason of the "Combat" TV'er reports that his mail from female fans has slumped almost 50 per cent since he got married... Singer Fran Warren will fly to Madrid to do two shows with Xavier Cugat... film star Jack Lemmon, a part-time composer, got a report on his royalties for the past seven years: A total of $15.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Robert Morse tells of the fellow who's making a fortune at the Fair—he sells maps showing the location of all the rest rooms.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: A fellow mentioned that his wife was worn out: "She spent the entire day listening."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "The remarkable thing about college reunions is that your classmates have gotten so stout and bald they hardly recognize you."—Anon.

That's earl brother.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions by adults to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Linda Kay Gupta, age eight, of Houston, Tex., for her question:

When did the first insects live?

The cockroach who lives in the kitchen is a pesky bug, and he seems to know that he is not welcome to share our homes. At any rate, he scuttles to his hiding place as fast as his six spiky legs will carry him. But if he knew it, the little fellow has one good reason to feel proud of himself. His family has lived on earth for at least 250 million years. All this time cockroaches have been solving their problems, making a living.

About 250 million years ago there were tangled forests of giant horsetails and ferny trees. We call them the coal forests because later they were buried under layers of new rock and pressed into beds of sooty black coal. There were no birds and no snakes, no frogs and no furry cats in those ancient coal forests. But there were roaches and giant dragonflies.

Experts have found the fossil remains of these ancient insects in coal and layers of buried rocks. Sometimes, when a bug died, his tiny body was pressed between a pile of fallen leaves or covered with a blanket of drifting dust. After millions of years, the leaves were changed to coal and the dust became hard rock. The fragile body of the little bug was pressed like a petal between the pages of a book.

Wings a Yard Wide

Ages later its remains were found by a fossil hunter. There, between the rocky pages, was the imprint of a small body with spindly thin legs and perhaps a pair of tissue-thin wings marked with lacy veins. Some of the early dragonflies of the ancient coal forests were whoppers. Their gauzy wings spread a whole yard wide from tip to tip.

All plants and animals came from parent plants and animals. The insects of 250 million years ago must have had parents. But we have no fossil records of them. We do not know when these first insect ancestors came to live in the world. Perhaps they were here 300 million years ago or even longer, but we are not sure what they were like.

At last the ancient coal forests grew no more. But the first insects multiplied and branched out into all sorts of different bugs and beetles. Later, much later, the bulky dinosaurs arrived and strode around the world. This was about 180 million years ago. The dinosaurs found the world already populated with the ancestors of most of our modern insects. And the insects were still here, doing splendidly, when the dinosaurs departed about 60 million years ago.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book globe to Susan Despot, age nine, of Shreveport, La., for her question:

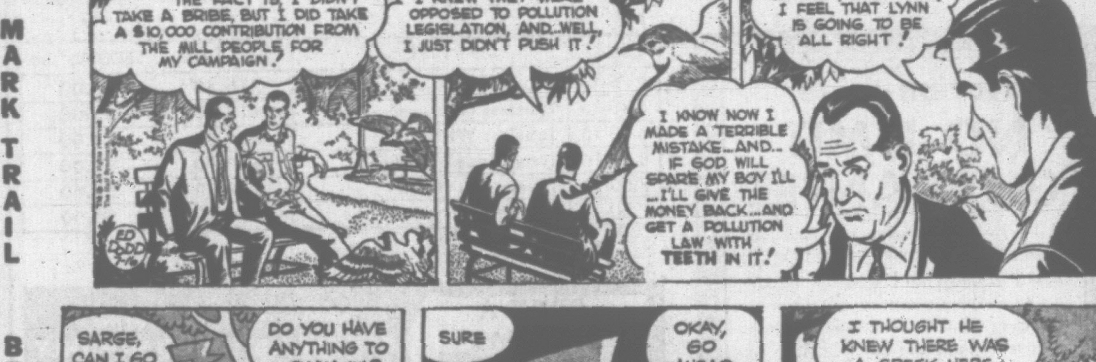

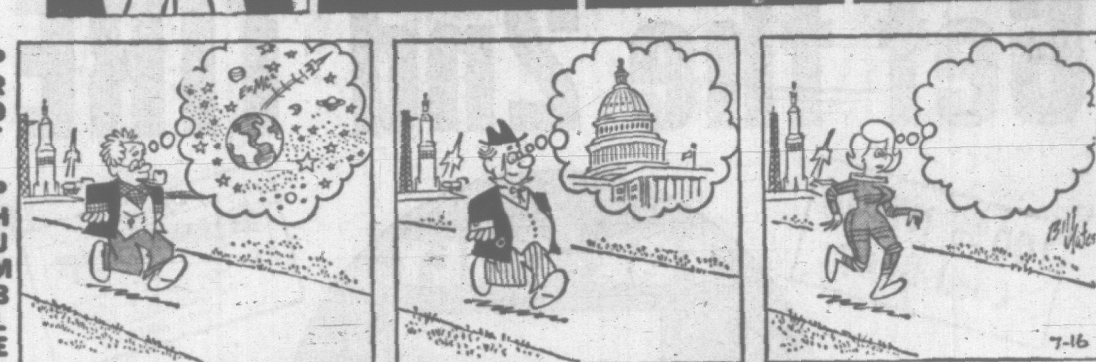

Is a cyclone the same as a tornado?

A weather expert might tell you that a tornado is a small cyclone. To him, a cyclone is any storm with winds spiraling into the center. It may be a tornado, a hurricane or one of the big low-pressure areas that moves slowly from the west, bringing a spell of nasty weather across the land.

People around the world have everyday names for storms. We call the smallest cyclone a tornado or a twister. Its furious winds twist into the center and whisk aloft. A hurricane is a much bigger storm, but its winds also spiral into the center and whisk aloft. In the North Pacific, people call the howling hurricane a typhoon, and people in Australia call it a Willie-Willie. The weatherman calls it a tropical cyclone, because it starts in the tropics near the equator.

TEEN-AGE CANADA

'We Just Don't Know the Score'

BY JACK HUTTON

"My sisters and brothers and I grew up in a small town without ever meeting a Negro. We had no Negroes attending our little high school.

"How can we be expected to understand in Canada what all the fuss is about below the border? We're sympathetic—but we just don't know the score."

That's a 19-year-old girl speaking; only one of about 30 readers who apparently felt upset after reading a letter in this column from a Negro teen-ager who felt he'd been slighted in Canada.

The Negro reader had a serious charge to make: he claims Canadian teen-agers are just as guilty of discrimination as their counterparts in the U.S.—even if they are more polite about it.

Disillusioned

If you remember his letter, he said he had always believed Canada was the one spot on the North American continent free of discrimination. But after working briefly in Vancouver, Winnipeg and Toronto he returned disillusioned to Detroit, Mich.

I can't print all of the letters that replied to his charge, but they boiled down to one conclusion: we weren't given a chance. Any stranger who judges a country on such brief acquaintance isn't being fair.

Here was Miss O. M. from Winnipeg, Man.: "In my opinion, this boy is sadly disillusioned. It seems to me that he has given up far too easily. After all, life is not a garden of flowers, but rather a skinny plant trying to survive amongst a hoard of weeds."

"The first thing this boy did was to look for a room with the result that he was turned down."

"Now it is said he became suspicious then. Suspicious on one try? What kind of will power is that? Sure, if he'd been turned down four or five times I see his point—but on one try?"

And does he think that coffee shops where school gangs just about his age hang out are the only places where teens congregate? I wonder if he tried going to churches, Young People's meetings or YMCA groups?"

Sympathetic

A 15-year-old Halifax, N.S., reader who preferred to remain anonymous had this to say: "I feel very sympathetic towards Negroes in their segregation fight, and I'm sure all my friends do too. But we're so far from it here."

"Your correspondent wondered whether Canadian students think twice about taking home a colored friend. I don't think that's true, but I can't prove it. You see, we haven't had the chance to meet Negroes and discuss these problems."

"Also, he said he felt out of place in the big cities. Believe me, there are lots of us who feel small and lonely in places like Toronto, Vancouver and Montreal. It's different when you get to know them, I'm sure, but they seem so big."

"All I want to say is we all share the problems he described. And I wish he'd come back and give us another chance."

Upset Reader

We also heard from "An Upset Reader" in Vancouver. "I read in your column about the Negro teen-ager who felt he'd been given a bad deal in our city, and I couldn't help wondering whose fault it was."

"We've a number of clubs that would have welcomed him. There is almost literally no limit to the number of things he could have done and enjoyed—swimming, attending night classes, playing tennis, book clubs, listening to records and music."

"Perhaps our fault is that we don't make enough people aware of these activities. I guess we don't if even one fellow feels that badly."

John B. of Toronto had a brief comment. "I felt rather badly and not a little ashamed when I read your column," he said. "It must prove that we simply don't understand the depth of feeling in racial relations. Perhaps we just take people for granted in Canada and don't make enough of an effort to reach visitors like these."

One last note: We didn't hear from one other Negro reader.

DOG TRAINER KILLED BY OWN GREAT DANES

HAMBURG, West Germany (UPI)—Dog trainer Otto Mueller vowed he would be more careful with his Great Danes after they attacked his wife.
He entered their kennel later, however, and they chewed him to death, police said today.
One of the Great Danes also bit Mueller's wife on both arms early Wednesday.
The local dog trainers society advised the 71-year-old trainer to be more careful.
"He promised he would not enter the kennel any more, but throw meat for the dogs across the fence," a society spokesman said.
"I guess he didn't keep his promise."
Police found Mueller's mutilated body sprawled in the kennel Wednesday. A vital artery had been torn open. The police had to shoot the dogs before they could reach Mueller's body.

NO BABY-KISSING

Sunday morning crowd of airport greeters.
Goldwater has never mastered the quick and easy handshake—the hello-goodbye style of a Nelson Rockefeller. He is at his best when there's time to stop and talk.
Goldwater is no spellbinder on a campaign platform. He delivers some of his toughest campaign attacks in a near-monotone.
But Goldwater fans turn out for message, not style. And the senator gives them that—two-listed attacks on Democratic President Johnson, demands for an end to big government, and a promise that he will lead the United States to a stronger stance in the world and a balanced budget at home.
AT HOME ANYWHERE
A friendly, free-wheeling westerner, Goldwater is at home swigging beer from a paper cup at an Arizona rodeo, or chatting by radio with a Mexican friend as he pilots his twin-engine airplane near the border.
Goldwater traces his ancestry to pioneer stock, and a grandfather who crossed the desert from California to Arizona to open the family store. One of his favorite campaign lines: "How he did it without federal aid, I'll never know."
Goldwater is six feet tall and weighs about 185 pounds. He has an outdoorsman's tan. And he doesn't like to sit still very long.
He has spent more than 8,000 hours aloft as a military pilot and covered well over 1,000,000 miles as a Republican party fund-raiser.
Goldwater served six years as chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee.

captive nations of eastern Europe, he is making himself sound like one who will fight a war to the bitter end in order to liberate their native lands.
The Goldwater people are now hoping to induce Governor Wallace to withdraw in favor of Goldwater. While paying lip service to the civil rights act, they are hoping to gather in the Wallace following which is in open rebellion against the civil rights act.
At the same time, they are reaching out to the unhappy exiles from eastern Europe with the hope of cutting into the Democratic strength among the working people in the cities.
This will provoke a dangerously bitter campaign. It is not going to be a debate on the highly debatable issue of federal-state relations, of the new fiscal policy, of the degree and the kind of wise federal intervention in the determination of prices and wages by large corporations and large labor unions.
Senator Goldwater, it seems to me, is preparing to play with the much more inflammable materials of race relations and of war and peace.

Reckless Gamble

It must be admitted that for him the rational issues do not promise the kind of electoral breakthrough which he needs to have in order to defeat President Johnson.
For one thing, in experience and knowledge of the issues, he is no match for the president. For another, in spite of the fierce anger of his own fans, the country as a whole is prosperous and the notion that it is groaning under a federal tyranny is laughable.
And so, because there are few voters to be won over by a rational campaign about conservatism and progressivism, he appears to be gambling recklessly on racism and jingoism.
The kind of campaign that this one is threatening to be will put to the acid test the American conviction that there is in the great masses of the people enough common sense and good will to defeat the snares of the demagogues and extremists.
The American conviction is an honorable one. Indeed, it is crucial and indispensable if popular government is to work.
The conviction will, however, justify itself this year only if the moral and intellectual forces of the nation are aroused and rallied and resolved to justify it.

Is "slow" gin sloe gin?

No.

On the contrary. Though they sound alike, they're poles apart.
Sloe Gin—flavoured with sloes—is sweetish and aromatic. Our "slow" gin—Burnett's Sterling—is a juniper gin; a London Dry Gin. With the emphasis very much on dry.
Why do we call it a "slow" gin? Because it's made slowly—the old-world way. In small, unhurried batches.
The whole process is rather like home cooking. Watching, sniffing, tasting, we hover over Sterling's distillation. What sets the slow pace is our little English Pot Stills. Like the one you see on the right.

These seasoned old-timers are more than 100 years old. We brought them from England in the 1920s—when we imported Burnett's complete distillery.
Compared with today's huge, automatic stills, our old copper Pot Stills are miniatures—and slowpokes. In the time they take to make one gallon of gin, some of their modern counterparts are mass-producing ten.
We'd save money by switching to such monsters. But our Burnett's Sterling would no longer be a "slow" gin. And it wouldn't taste the same.

Burnett's Sterling London Dry Gin.

World's most beautiful lake?

Old Prospector Yearns For Alpine Shangri-La

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Where's the most beautiful lake in the world? Right on Vancouver Island, according to 74-year-old Lorne Campbell, 928 Selkirk, prospector and mineralogist, who has seen and explored hundreds of lakes in Canada?

He claims it's Beauty Lake—an alpine lake situated 40 miles north of Alberni, near the 1,443-foot Della Falls, the world's highest.

The water of the lake is turquoise in color," he said. "I have never seen, nor have I ever read about a lake to match this one. If there is one, I would like to know where."

'A SHANGRI-LA'

"The blue-green lake is flanked by snow-peaked mountains, a glacier, and meadows where phlox and other alpine flowers grow in profusion," he added. "It's a Shangri-la—a scenic wonder."

Mr. Campbell has visited the lake three times and, he says, his one dream now is to see it once more. But he wants to go by helicopter this time and spend a week there exploring the area.

"I'm not as young as I use to be," he said. "Though mind you I can still walk a fair distance, but packing in food is the big trouble."

He described the lake about the size of Prospect Lake, but circular in shape.

MINERAL COLORING

High up on a mountain slope are blocks of soft, greyish-green blocks of stone which apparently are the cause for the color of the water.

Weather is slowly dissolving an element in the stone which is washed down to the lake to give it color, mining engineers say.

The lake is within easy access to hikers, Mr. Campbell said.

The route starts from the head of Great Central Lake and follows Drinkwater Creek to the foot of Della Falls. There a trail winds up a 1,500-foot precipice to an alpine plateau and Della Lake—the source of the famous waterfalls.

From there a trail takes you in a southwesterly direction over a mountain ridge and down to Beauty Lake.

BASE CAMP

He suggests that hikers establish a base camp at Della Lake and from there explore the surrounding country.

"Apart from Beauty Lake, there is an extinct volcanic crater to explore," he said. "This is reached by following the glacier stream which feeds Della Lake. The crater is a lapidary's paradise."

Glistening quartz between 2 and 2½ inches long can be found in test holes dug by miners years ago atop a ridge overlooking Della Lake, he said. Some test holes are 50 feet in depth.

Mr. Campbell said the best time to go to Beauty Lake is in mid-August. Before then the lake is likely to be frozen over and the meadows covered with snow.

COLD NIGHTS

"A warm sleeping bag is necessary as it gets cold on the alpine plateau at night," he pointed out.

The mineralogist is one of the few people who have seen the Beauty Lake falls, situated about a mile-and-a-half southwest of Della Falls.

"I wouldn't advise anyone to go there because the going is really tough," he said. "But the sight of the sun shining on the tumbling and cascading water is a sight I shall never forget."

UNUSUAL SENTENCE SUSPENDED

NANAIMO—Magistrate Eric Winch said in magistrate's court Wednesday: "If Nelson was closer to me I would get him to bend over and I would kick him."

"I think that is what he needs."

The proposal referred to Daniel Wayne Nelson, 18, of Nanaimo, who appeared on a dangerous driving charge.

He was fined $60 and suspended three months. On a further charge of being a minor in possession of beer, he was acquitted.

Magistrate Winch said Nelson had admitted being in possession of beer but made the admission through "petulance and immaturity."

He refused to accept Nelson's admission and told him: "I think it's about time you reviewed your attitude towards authority."

ISLAND ROUNDUP

Warehouse Fire Worst in Years

FULFORD—A recently-opened lumber yard warehouse was destroyed by fire here Wednesday.

The fire—the largest on Salt Spring Island in a decade—tore through the Economy warehouse causing an estimated $25,000 damage.

The alarm was sounded by nearby residents, awakened by the roaring flames.

The island's fire department played their hoses on St. Mary's Church, just 100 feet away from the flames. Rain-soaked grass in the space between helped save the church as well as the nearby community centre.

Flames from the single storey, 60 by 40 feet building roared straight into the sky at first.

Then, fanned by a slight breeze, they began to creep towards the church.

The warehouse was finished early this month by Frank Jones, formerly of Vancouver, on property owned by Art Young, of Ganges.

Biggest loss was believed to be china, plumbing equipment, water tanks, and 100 cans of paint stored there for later sale in a shop proposed by Mr. Jones.

PORT ALBERNI—(CP)—The Tahsis Company Wednesday informed 70 employees it is closing its sawmill here Sept. 30. The company offered to pay the fares and $250 towards moving costs of employees wishing to join the company's operations at Tahsis. Continued operation of the Port Alberni mill would be uneconomical, the company said.

SOOKE—Drilling and blasting crews will commence removal of two rock hazards to shipping in Sooke Harbor area on Monday.

Drilling and blasting operations will continue until Aug. 10 in the harbor itself and move to the harbor's entrance channel until Sept. 10.

During this period charges will be detonated several times a day.

GANGES—Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce has abandoned plans to repeat last year's Pirate Day celebrations.

The decision was made when a recent meeting to organize the festivities failed to produce sufficient support.

DUNCAN—An undetermined amount of tranquilizers was taken overnight Tuesday when burglars entered the office of Dr. J. U. Coleman.

Prairie Picnic At Parksville

NANAIMO—The Chamber of Commerce is urging Prairie people to stay on the island for the Prairie People's picnic in Parksville, July 25 and 26.

The picnic will include a beauty contest, followed by free pancakes, a hunt for buried treasure, a horseshoe tournament and ladies nail driving competition and many other forms of entertainment.

New Ferry Terminal Undecided

VANCOUVER (CP) — Monty Aldous, manager of the government owned B.C. Ferry Authority, said today the authority has not yet decided whether to move its Horseshoe Bay terminal.

West Vancouver municipal council, in whose district Horseshoe Bay lies, says the terminal causes traffic congestion and creates a hazard to small boats operating in the area. They have asked the authority to move the terminal.

Mr. Aldous said he had made recommendations on the subject and that they were in the hands of the ferry authority board, but he declined to say what his suggestions entailed.

Ferries run from Horseshoe Bay to Nanaimo, the Sechart Peninsula and Bowen Island.

USE YOUR PBA

Arthur Mayse

Sometime when you're out trolling for salmon with frozen and packaged bait bought from sporting goods store or marina, you may pass an old hand whose boat sports what from a distance looks like a slender bowsprit.

This object is a herring rake. Back in the handlining days, when a rowboat fisherman could make his winter stake from the summer coho runs, it was standard equipment, and its use a familiar art the length of our coast.

Sweep its needle-armed edge through a minnow school, shake your wriggling silver booty into a boat-bottom canvas, transfer the take to a can of salt water, and you had for your slush hook the tidbit which no hungry salmon can refuse.

The weighted leg-line trailing deep below with its diamond of Gibbs-Stuart spring might fetch a couple of spring salmon to unload when the packer stopped by. But for a payload of coho, a man needed minnows.

I have seen and used herring rakes which were no more than clumsy slats peppered with finishing nails. Your weather-bitten handliner of the between-war years would scorn any such haywire rigs, however.

His rake was a thing of grace. It is not beauty, shaped to a functional design by hours of patient whittling and scraping, and toothed with needle-sharp piano wire snipped from the coil that furnished his spring salmon leaders.

It entered the water without splash, minnow-scaring resistance, passed through a bait school with a clean and easy sweep, and emerged with its catch securely impaled.

A good herring rake was and is a tool of the sort a man guards jealously and lends with growling reluctance. I'll show mine gladly to any interested fisherman; but don't, please, try to borrow it!

Much better to custom-fabricate your own. This indeed, you must do if you want one, since to the best of my knowledge, herring rakes aren't and never have been sold in the stores.

The project fits nicely into a wet weekend or a couple of basement evenings. Tools needed are a sharp knife and a plane if you have one; materials a 10-foot length of straight-grained western red cedar four inches wide, cut from a dressed half-inch plank; sandpaper both coarse and fine; and a package of 100 brass herring rake pins.

(Use piano wire if you like, but the pins are handier and more durable. If your sporting goods supplier doesn't carry them, I can tell you where to get them, at something under a buck a pack.)

Plane or otherwise reduce your cedar slat until, in cross-section, its shape is a flat oval three and a half inches wide and just under half an inch thick at the centre. Then, with finicky care, go to work on the final yard, which forms the blade. Width and centre thickness stay the same, as does the raking edge. But what in an aircraft wing we'd call the trailing edge is thinned to about one-sixteenth of an inch.

Taper the blade-tip to a corresponding edge, sand your rake to a velvet-smooth finish, then we're ready to fit the teeth. To do this, cut the head off each brass pin at a slight angle, and with pliers, push the thick or cut end about half an inch into the soft cedar.

Inserted three-eighths of an inch apart, these teeth will arm the blade in such fashion that you won't run a careless hand or rump along it twice.

For a neater and easier job, start your row of tooth-holes with a fine drill.

The finished rake, if these instructions haven't thrown you, will be a light, balanced tool which utilizes a standard principle of aerodynamic design.

Left bare, the cedar will weather to a dull grey, but if you wish to dupe your rake up, give it a coat or two of dark green boat paint.

To make it work for you, slowly cruise along a kelp bed or over a sheltered eel-grass pasture until you catch the fathom-deep twinkle or the myriad tiny surface rings of a bait-school.

Then, presuming that your boat is small and open, stand braced in the bows, paddling kayak-style with the rake until the young herring or needle-fish are glinting below just ahead. Slip the smooth rake handle through your palms, judge the depth, and take an easy, edge-on canoe paddle stroke.

Follow through till the teeth clear the surface, and if you're scored, shake anywhere from a couple to a score of minnows aboard.

Bouncing and flipping on your canvas is live bait which will lure salmon when all other artifices fail. Rake all you need—but only what you need—stow the rake handliner-style in the bows, and go catch yourself a fish!

BIRTH TOTALS NOT FULL STORY

By MARGE GILROY
They say statistics don't lie, but often there are facts and figures behind the statistics that tell a different story.

Recently Nanaimo doctors expressed alarm at the 5 per cent illegitimacy rate in the number of births for that area. After this Health Minister Eric Martin quoted the provincial average as being 7.3 per cent.

Further investigation into the statistical report of 1962 revealed that the percentage was even higher in some of the municipalities on lower Vancouver Island.

Other figures show: In Oak Bay 9.1 per cent of all live births were illegitimate; Saanich, 4.7 per cent; Esquimalt, not quite 2 per cent; Victoria, 7.6 per cent and Central Saanich, 8 per cent.

PLACE OF RESIDENCE

Area statistics are compiled from birth certificates on which the mother records her place of residence. For many unmarried girls this address is often the address of a home where the girl has been employed and lived during her pregnancy.

Gordon Wright, director of the Family and Children's Service, said today that these were some of the facts that are never revealed in statistics.

He pointed out that there are more unmarried girls placed in homes in Oak Bay than any other nearby municipality, and for this reason the number of illegitimate births recorded for that area is exceptionally high. Similarly Mr. Wright said he could not recall any girls being placed in homes in Esquimalt, recently. There, the rate was slightly less than 2 per cent.

Many unmarried girls leave their own place of residence and move to another area to have their babies. For this reason the figures quoted for each municipality are not indicative of promiscuity in that particular area.

Another fact which should be taken into consideration, Mr. Wright said, is the ratio of adolescent girls in comparison with the number of women in the child-bearing age.

In Oak Bay, Mr. Wright said, the percentage figure for adolescents is 33, in Central Saanich, 32, Esquimalt and Victoria 23 and Saanich 27.

Deer Have Us 'Buffaloed' Farmers Say

By HUMPHRY DAVY
The public image of deer as a loveable, timid, friend to man is remote from fact and reality according to a group of Saanich residents and farmers.

They say bambi is a bandit.

They complain that deer are making a mess of gardens, damaging fruit orchards, eating their cabbage and cauliflower, and in some cases they have ruined strawberry plantations.

The complainants feel it is about time the true nature of the deer was made known. He's more of a shmoe than a shmoo.

Scourge of Saanich

"He's the picaaron and marauder of the animal world," said Geoff Vantreight. "The deer does more damage than all the other wild animals put together."

Except for bonafide farmers, who must obtain special permits, no one is allowed to shoot deer out of season.

Game officials who have been confronted with the problem of deer damage for years, have not yet been able to devise an effective control to prevent damage.

Most of the trouble is occurring in the Old West Saanich Road, Oldfield Road, Wallace Drive, Butchart's Gardens and Mount Newton areas. The deer move in from the Highland District and heavily wooded areas of the Saanich peninsula.

'They Go Too Far'

Mr. Vantreight, who has a 200-acre farm on Wallace Drive, said the ravenous appetite of the deer is giving his young cauliflower and strawberry plants a bad time.

"The deer isn't really friendly," he said. "He has gall and wants a handout. I avoid shooting them, but sometimes they go too far."

He recalled on one occasion when he let a deer roam about his farm, the doe took advantage of the situation by later bringing two young fawns to feed on his plants.

D. E. Welsh, 5650 Oldfield Road, a lover of wildlife, said he hasn't yet had a crop from his young cherry trees due to deer eating the young shoots.

Worst of the Lot

"I like to see deer around, but they go too far," he said. "I have pheasants, a roon and muskrat around the place, but they don't give me any trouble."

Joseph Condor, 5531 Oldfield Road, said the animals have wrecked his 24 apple and cherry trees.

"They cleaned up my strawberry patch too," he said.

Frank Doyle, fruit farmer on the Old West Saanich Road, said he uses sheep to keep the deer away from his cherry orchard.

"They don't like the smell of sheep and keep away," he said. "But once you move the sheep they are in again."

Ignored Attacks

R. H. Welsh, 5661 Old West Saanich Road, said he can't see anything gentle about a deer. He said he threw rocks at three of them who were eating young apples off his trees and none moved.

"There's nothing gentle about a deer," he said. "He comes out in the open and takes what he likes. Compare the cougar who doesn't even show his whiskers when anyone is around."

Most land owners agree that the deer draws more public sympathy than any other wild animal when something happens to it. They attributed this to childhood stories depicting the deer as friendly and gentle.

"But it isn't so," they said. "He's crafty, wasteful and unrelenting thief who draws on your sympathy to rob you—the con man of the forests."

$1.62 Million Jobs Lined Up

11-YEAR-OLD DRIVER'S DAD FINED $40

A man who taught his 11-year-old son to drive was permitting him "to endanger his own life and the lives of others," he was told in city police court today.

William K. Grieve, 3119 Napier, was fined $40 for allowing a minor to drive without a licence.

City police found the boy behind the wheel of his father's car when they went to investigate an accident July 1 at Burnside and Napier.

Mr. Grieve told the court today he had taught the boy to drive on private property. He was sitting next to him at the time of the accident.

"I find it hard to believe a conscientious father would permit an 11-year-old child to drive," Magistrate William Ostler told him.

"I don't think the accident was the boy's fault," replied Mr. Grieve.

2 Teen-Age Boys Arrested After High-Speed Chase

Two teen-age boys were scheduled to appear in juvenile court this afternoon on five charges of taking autos without the owner's consent.

The boys—one 14 and one 15—were arrested at 9:30 p.m. Wednesday by Saanich police.

The arrests followed a high-speed chase through View Royal and Saanich early Wednesday.

Colwood RCMP and Saanich police cars chased the youths from View Royal after the car they were driving was recognized as stolen.

The chase hit speeds up to 60 miles an hour, and ended on Rainbow when the car was forced into the bushes.

The boys fled, ignoring warning shots fired over their heads by police.

Later, the car was identified as belonging to Leonard Chambers, 769 Rogers, who did not realize the car had been stolen until police told him.

Maybe Tonight

The International Film Festival is two shows behind schedule, due to rain, but the English and Russian films on the program for Tuesday and Wednesday will be shown tonight, Friday or even later, when weather permits.

Preliminary scheduling of some $1,621,000-worth of capital works over the next two years was approved by Victoria city finance committee this morning, including the start of two major projects next month.

All the work involved was approved by ratepayers June 18 as part of the $3,387,000 five-year capital budget.

City manager Dennis Young said although all the items in the budget were highly desirable it was not possible to start them all at once.

The priority schedule was drawn up after studying timing needed to obtain the maximum in federal and provincial grants and create a smooth work flow for city staff so that heavy overtime or temporary staff costs could be avoided.

COUNCIL MUST O.K.

If council agrees, all or stages of these projects will start in:

August—$50,000 to replace two bridges over Bowker with culverts, $125,000 to extend Finlayson from Douglas through to Jutland at Burnside; negotiations for purchasing some $350,000 worth of land involved in all the five-year plan's projects including road and park expansions;

September—$354,000 parking garage in the civic precinct;

November—$64,000 Bastion Square restoration; $162,000 for extension of Blanshard to Topaz and widening Rose Street;

Early Summer of 1965—$333,000 for first stage of a trunk sewer program in the James Bay area, $30,000 to extend Superior Street to Cook; the fall of 1965—first stage of downtown malls, $66,000 for Topaz Park development.

Mr. Young said a total of $209,320 in government grants was anticipated to help with all this work, reducing the city's net cost to $1,411,680.

The Bowker Creek enclosure eventually will cost a total of $300,000 over the five-year period.

Committee also recommended approval of an offer by Morrison Motors Ltd. to sell for $50,000 an 83-foot wide strip through the centre of property it recently acquired between Douglas and Burnside to provide right-of-way for the Finlayson extension.

Mr. Young said a five-lane extension would join Finlayson with Jutland to provide a new east-west artery right through from Cook to Gorge Road.

The schedule calls for its opening about November of this year.

Mr. Young added a special five-foot jog in the sidewalk has been planned at the projected Finlayson-Burnside intersection to avoid destruction of a giant redwood tree that is considered one of the best sequoia specimens in this area.

$5,282 Prize Takes Student To Harvard U.

Victoria graduate student William B. Little will attend Harvard University on a $5,282 Ford Foundation fellowship.

He is one of 13 Canadian graduate students and university faculty members chosen to attend American universities for further study.

Four other B.C. students, all of Vancouver, are among the total, the Ford Foundation said today.

They will study in the area of business administration and economics, for which the foundation awarded 184 fellowships to persons at 47 colleges and universities around the world.

Bonner Clearing Way For Bennett Bank Bid

Attorney-General Robert Bonner flies to Ottawa Sunday for an advance parley with lawyers about B.C.'s bid for a new bank.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Education Minister Leslie Peterson will follow Tuesday.

They will all appear before the senate's banking committee next Wednesday, seeking a charter for the Bank of British Columbia.

Mr. Bonner said he will meet Ottawa lawyer William Burke-Robertson, who has been retained as counsel for the would-be bankers.

"I will see if there are any preliminary points which require discussion in connection with the premier's appearance before the banking committee," Mr. Bonner said.

PRELIMINARY BOUT

Meanwhile, the premier plans to fire off a preliminary broadside of his own at a press conference here Monday afternoon.

Mr. Bennett will have a formal brief to submit to the senate committee and is also expected to take the stand for questioning.

The B.C. government has legislative power to buy up to one quarter of the shares in the new bank, which will have a capital of $100 million.

However, the premier has said recently the government might buy only 5 to 10 per cent of the shares.

Also going east in the bank party are Deputy Finance Minister G. S. Bryson, Assistant Deputy William Veitch and possibly Deputy Attorney-General Gilbert Kennedy.

The five provisional directors of the bank are also expected to be in Ottawa, although the premier will be doing most of the talking.

Ask The Times

Q. Could you please tell me if the Island Princess, which used to ply between Victoria and the Gulf Islands during the 20s and early 30s is still in operation in these waters? W.E.S.

A. Yes it is—only under a new name and new ownership. It is known as the Cy Peck and is run intermittently in the Gulf Islands by the B.C. Ferry Authority. It is based at Fulford Harbor.

The ship was launched in 1913 in Tacoma and was named the Dally. She became the Island Princess during her 1918-1929 CPR service.

An Island Princess launched in Vancouver in 1963 is running a 40-mile daily service between Soledad and Kelsey Bay for Coast Ferries Ltd. of Vancouver.

At noon today Victoria's temperature was only 54.9 degrees, well below the record low maximum of 56.7 on July 16, 1905.

Sunshine for July is now 40 hours below the normal, and continued unsettled weather is forecast.

Nearly 1,000 school teachers in District 61 will report for duty with school re-opening Sept. 8, a boost of 43 over last term.

There will be 963 teachers on the payroll to look after a predicted enrolment of 27,000 children, or about 1,000 more than went on vacation this month.

Steady enrolment growth produces a parallel staff expansion, both aspects running ahead of the district's ability to provide space.

Contemporary photography from all over the world is on display for Victorians this week and next.

Car Travel Can Be Expensive!

One car bumper will only hold so many licence plates—so Spencer Peat is hoping someday to buy a plate that will serve for all of Canada.

Mr. Peat, who is a financial consultant in Vancouver and travels from province to province to organize fund-raising programs, arrived in Victoria Wednesday carrying plates from the three western provinces.

In Alberta Mr. Peat pays $16, in Saskatchewan he pays $15 for plates plus $48 for insurance there and in B.C. the price is $22.50 for plates.

This fall he is heading for Winnipeg, and already he is wondering where he will put a Manitoba plate.

A BUMPER CROP of plates is what Spencer Peat needs to travel the west.

Remove Superfluous Hair With Special New Mitten

By PENNY SAVER

Today, I'd like to bring you a new idea for safe-removal of superfluous hair. It is called a hair remover mitten and it sells for only 29 cents.

Mitten is made of a heavy coarse substance. It contains no chemicals and is therefore completely harmless to the skin.

Slipped on the hand and rubbed gently in a circular motion, it removes hair at skin surface and leaves no embarrassing stragglers. Hair ends are left frayed and soft, never harsh and bristly. After treatment, skin has a fresh velvety texture. Mitten is also moisture-proof and washable.

Same shop is also selling a special product for protecting tender sensitive areas of the face from the effects of strong searing sun.

Product is similar to a clear lipstick and can be used on lips, eyelids and nose or wherever else added protection is needed. Price is $1.50. It also helps prevent sun wrinkles and lines.

Product does away with dryness and can be used over regular make-up without changing the color. For maximum protection it should be used with your usual tanning cream or lotion and reapplied regularly.

You'll get further information on where to shop for these products if you call Penny at 382-3131.

Those who wore shoes with stiletto heels to the Government House garden party, Wednesday afternoon, found rain-drenched lawns a real hazard. Here, Miss Valerie Bell, Vancouver, left, and well-known tennis star, Miss Susan Butt, now of Burnaby but formerly of Victoria, struggle to free the heels without losing their shoes. They looked longingly at the more practical guests who came equipped with galoshes.

First Party; First Impressions

By MARLENE GLASSFORD

Wide-eyed with expectation, I attended my first Government House garden party on Wednesday.

Never having set foot in the grounds before I was astounded at the size and beauty of the scene.

The green lawns were a picture with white tables and chairs and the long marquees laden with sandwiches and cakes for the hundreds of guests who attended.

Adding to the scene was the brilliant array of umbrellas that appeared and disappeared with each new onslaught of rain.

Though many left garden party hats and light summer wear at home, they still turned out smartly dressed in furs and rainy weather attire.

Even the men came prepared for the downpours. Many could be seen with plastic coverings protecting their best fedoras.

One particularly far-sighted man brought along his huge golfing umbrella. Friends and acquaintances shared it with him.

It was a day for candid comments as well as pleasure. And as one woman put it, "this weather may not be good for anything else, but it saves watering the lawn."

Water the lawns it did. But no one seemed to mind.

Behind scenes Government House staff members, augmented by others for the day, were kept busy making coffee and tea, filling and refilling sandwich and cake trays and serving ice cream.

Any self-consciousness I felt as a newcomer to the party was soon dissolved in the warm greetings received from friends and strangers alike.

It was a gigantic gathering of people from all walks of life.

DEAR ABBY . . .

She Cuts Poor Figure!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We (four sisters) were quite young when our grandmother passed away, leaving us all her lovely cut glass. I married first, so I stored the box of cut glass in my attic. When the next sister married she had a china closet, so she asked me if she could keep the cut glass in her home. I agreed. Then the other two girls married. It has been 12 years, and now the other sisters (and I, too) could use our share. When I asked the sister who has it displayed in her china closet for my share, she told me I had GIVEN it all to her. She can keep mine, but the other sisters feel that I GAVE theirs to her, too. How can I right this without creating hard feelings?

A SISTER
DEAR SISTER: Tell your sisters that you did not GIVE the cut glass away — you agreed only to let your sister keep it until the others had use for it. Then it will be up to the sisters to claim what is rightfully theirs. But tell them not to be disappointed if they don't get it. Families have been shattered over less than a few pieces of cut glass.

DEAR ABBY: Whenever I need new clothes, my mother takes me shopping. I am 13, and think I should be able to go in the stores alone first and pick out what I like, and then bring my mother in to make the final decision. Lots of my friends do that, but I am afraid to suggest it to my mother because it might hurt her feelings. Should I?

TEEN-AGER
DEAR TEEN-AGER: You are sweet to be so considerate of your mother's feelings. Honey, I should think she

Burgess-Smir Vows in St. John's

Baskets of white delphiniums and gladioli and ivy decorated St. John's Anglican Church, last Friday evening, when Canon George Biddle officiated at the ceremony that united Judith Anne Smirl and Thomas Edward Burgess.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Smirl, 248 Michigan Street, and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. (Tommy) Burgess, 304 Oswego Street. Mr. Smirl gave his daughter in marriage. Organist was Robert Rhodes.

The bride's floor-length gown of Brussels lace was highlighted with clusters of seed pearls. Back interest was created with a bouffant organly panel that extended to a soft train from a large organly bow at waistline. The bouffant tiered veil had scalloped edges. It puffed from a two-tier crown of crystal and seed pearls. She carried a prayer book with a white gardenia centred in blue delphiniums and white stephanotis.

Gowns of blue crystal charm over pink taffeta with blue velvet bows and belts were choice of maid of honor, Adele Smirl; bridesmaids, Miss Janis Robinson, South Pasadena, Calif., cousin of the bride, and Miss Lynne McConnell. They complemented their outfits with blue velvet bow headpieces trimmed with toning net and carried blue delphiniums and white stephanotis. Flower girl, Miss Ariene Smirl, wore a similar frock and had a crown of blue delphiniums in her hair.

Guests were ushered to their pews by David Smirl, Arthur Burgess and Gordon Burleson. Jack Smirl proposed the toast to his niece at a reception in Holyrood House. Bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake decorated with gold horseshoes and white doves and topped with a crystal vase of pink roses.

Arrangements of white and blue delphiniums, pink roses and pink carnations and pink candles completed the decorations. Jack Lenaghan played for dancing. Following a honeymoon trip up-Island, the couple will make their home at 616 Battery Street before moving to Vancouver in the fall.

For travelling, the bride wore a white sculptured wool pearl suit with pink accessories and corsage of pink roses.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

New Concept in Eyebrow Coloring Enhances Beauty

Periodically I like to call your attention to some of the new trends in makeup and to some of the truly helpful cosmetics which are constantly appearing in the market.

Eye makeup can add more beauty to a face than almost any other kind, but it is perhaps the most difficult of all to apply subtly. Too often the brows end up being harsh lines or are too dark. It takes a light touch to use an eyebrow pencil rewardingly. The pencil should be used in feathery strokes and then the color should be blended. This is easier said than done and takes practise.

Today there is a new concept of brow coloring. The color is in compact form. Along with this comes a little wedge-tipped brush. You simply pass the brush over the surface of the makeup and then brush the color on your brows. The result is very soft and natural looking without any harsh or uneven lines. You can also shape or extend your brows with the brush.

There are some new especially effective deodorant-antiperspirants. These are being improved constantly.

There is also a stick designed to use over any color lipstick. It is transparent and colorless and will not change the color of your usual stick. It adds a sheen to your lips and can be used alone if you prefer a more natural appearance. It also contains some medicated ingredients which will help protect the lips from dryness and chapping.

Remember too that there are waterproof makeup products for swimming days.

The eyelash curler has long been of the market. Now since women are taking more interest in eye makeup than they once did, this is again on the popularity list. The upward sweep of the lashes makes them appear longer.

If you would like to have the names of any of these items I have described, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

The weather played a game of quick change with the hundreds of guests attending annual Government House garden party, Wednesday afternoon. Umbrellas went up and came down as rain fell, blue sky appeared, and the sun shone in watery glimpses during the early hours of the party. After five a deluge of rain rapidly cleared the grounds. Nevertheless, it was a happy party, with hundreds standing in line to meet their hosts, Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes and Mrs. Pearkes. Picture above shows two lines converging at the receiving point. Weather Unco-operative But Party Voted A Success

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Dark clouds scurried across the sky. The sun shone briefly. It rained!

But, despite the weather, the annual Government House garden party, Wednesday afternoon, drew 2,563 guests.

There was no music on the lawns, of course. Bands of HMCS Naden and the Royal Engineers played in sheltered spots in the summerhouse and under the portico at the entrance to Government House.

Not nearly so many people sat at the white garden tables for tea. They crowded under the shelter of the trees and big marquees on the lower lawns.

There was a shift in the fashion picture, too, from filmy garden party dresses and big hats, to umbrellas in all colors and shapes and attractive raincoats, capes and hats.

Officers of the three services and of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police added color to the scene in their dress uniforms. Grey toppers and cut-away coats were worn despite the weather.

Members of the Solarium Junior League in their red jackets and white skirts assisted in serving the guests.

One league member, Mrs. Roy Baker said as she scurried by with her serving tray, "It may be wet, but their appetites are still good."

CHARM OF EAST

Mystic charm of the East was seen in the elegant draped pink and blue sari worn by Mrs. Dhawan, wife of the Indian trade commissioner at Vancouver. Her jewelry was silver and she topped her native dress with a rich beige and brown brocade coat.

Green and silver, enhanced with gold jewels was combined in the sari worn by Mrs. Sabu Singh.

Also in this party were Dr. and Mrs. D. P. Pandia and Mr. and Mrs. Sohen Singh Gill, also of Vancouver.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham Harper, formerly of Los Angeles and now of Duncan, attended the party with Mrs. Mason Hurley of Shawnigan Lake. Mrs. Harper wore a pale beige dress, silver mink stole and wide-brimmed coral pink hat with tiny wreath of flowers around the crown. Mrs. Hurley chose a black and white ensemble with fur stole.

Mrs. J. D. Hooton, a visitor from Cheltenham, England, was among guests with Mr. and Mrs. Ted Goddall.

Mrs. I. S. Douglas was a guest from Kitimat. With her were Mrs. W. S. Mercer, Mrs. Tom McDonald and Mrs. H. Rivers.

Dr. and Mrs. Peter Oranje were from East London, South Africa. Dr. Oranje had recently attended the Canadian Dental convention at Edmonton. At present they are visiting Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Brown at their Diana Street home.

Real or artificial was the question in the minds of many as they looked at the pink roses highlighted in Mrs. Russ Fitzsimmons' pink tulle "topper."

Question was answered by Mrs. Fitzsimmons herself who lifted her umbrella in the midst of a downpour to "water my flowers." They were real pink sweetheart roses.

Her outfit was a matching candy pink fur-trimmed suit.

A visitor from England, Mrs. Vera Taylor was smart in a green silk suit complemented with a white petal wig cloche that completely covered her hair.

Other smart ensembles noted in the crowd were:

Mrs. E. F. Macdonald, Burnaby, in a blue and green jacket dress with mink stole and small beige pillbox hat.

Mrs. W. N. Landmore in a green and beige ensemble with small off-face straw hat in complementing tones.

Mrs. Daryl Elford in a yellow dress and large yellow and white, tall crowned straw hat. Her rain cape was gay with yellow and white flowers.

Mrs. J. S. Adam, a fuchsia pink coat dress, collarless and styled in the A-line with large large black straw hat rolled back at the front.

Mrs. Godfrey Holloway of Vancouver in a navy blue silk suit classically styled. Pearl necklet and large white off-face hat and white accessories completed her ensemble.

BLACK AND WHITE

Mrs. C. W. Laver, Courtenay, wore a black and white print dress with black coat styled with deep side slits and three-quarter-length sleeves. Her jewelry was a large gold and pearl pin in leaf design and her hat was a deep black cloche.

Mrs. W. Seuby in a white-wool lace dress, broadtail jacket trimmed with mink and shocking pink ribbon cloche. With her was Mrs. R. E. Gladding, a visitor from Prince Rupert. She wore an ice-blue linen dress with tiny lace flowers at the neckline, a sapphire mink cape stole and black straw and tulle picture hat. Also in the party were Mrs. R. E. Mortimer in a beige and grey ensemble and Mrs. G. A. Daniels in pink and white.

Mrs. W. B. Holmes in a black and white ensemble. Her ruffled black and white party umbrella was a perfect foil for her large black hat.

Mrs. Charles Wilson in a blue and green dress, with fox fur and small green hat.

Cmdr. (ret.) R. D. Barrett and Mrs. Barrett came from Port Alberni for the party. Mrs. John McClintock and her brother-in-law, W. McClintock were visitors from Los Angeles. They attended with Mrs. H. Thirlwell. Chatting with them were Mrs. W. F. Paulin and Miss Kathleen Paulin.

Chiffon and Taffeta In Bridal Gown

Dianne Emille Milton wore a white nylon chiffon over taffeta gown when she exchanged vows with Terrence Douglas Elmes in Christ Church Cathedral.

Insert of nylon eyelet highlighted the fitted bodice. Two wide panels extending from the inserts accented the full skirt, which extended into a train. Back interest was created with an Elizabethan bustle enhanced with large bow.

A shoulder-length veil misted from a pearl coronet. Her only jewelry was a culture pearl-drop necklace, gift of the groom.

Dean Brian Whitlow officiated at the candlelight ceremony which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clue Milton, 1144 Burdett Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Elmes of Nelson, B.C.

Coral and white gladioli decorated the church. Soloist was Bill Dyson and the organist Richard Proudman.

Maid of honor for her twin sister was Miss Joanne Linda Milton; the bridesmaids were the Misses Audrey-Mae Stephanie and Muriel Louise Elmes, twin sisters of the groom, and the junior bridesmaid, Miss Cynthia Clue Milton, younger sister of the bride. They all wore gowns of coral peau de soie topped with toning georgette, and carried coral-tipped gladioli.

Petite flower girl Miss Mary Katherine Elmes, the groom's cousin, wore a white frock trimmed with coral.

GROOM'S PARTY

Malcolm Elmes was best man. Guests were ushered to their pews by Robert Stephanie, Wayne Taylor and John Graham.

Ivan G. Patrick proposed the toast to his niece at a reception in the Flamingo Room of the Crystal Garden. A three-tier wedding cake made by Mrs. Jessie Eaves, friend of the bride, centred the table. Decorations were completed with baskets of coral gladioli.

For travelling, the bride wore a Wedgwood blue linen suit with matching coat and accessories. Pink rosebuds were in her corsage.

After a honeymoon in the interior of British Columbia, the couple will make their home at Alberni.

Churchill Grandson Married in London

LONDON (UPI) — Winston Churchill Jr., grandson of Sir Winston Churchill, and Mary Catherine (Minnie) D'Eranger were married Wednesday in a 10-minute ceremony at a London register office.

The 24-year-old bride, in a white silk dress and carrying a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley, was given away by her brother, Robin, 19. Their father is the late Sir Gerald D'Eranger, former chairman of the British Overseas Airways Corporation (BOAC) and British European Airways (BEA).

Sir Winston was not at the ceremony but his wife, Lady Churchill, attended. After the wedding the couple and some of the guests drove to Sir Winston's home for a quiet champagne celebration before going on to the reception at a hotel.

Among the guests was the groom's mother, Mrs. Pamela Leland Haywood now married to the Broadway producer.

Superintendent registrar H. G. Williams performed the ceremony.

The groom is a member of the Church of England and the bride a Catholic.

Young Churchill's first book, about his African travels, will be published in September. Sir Winston's first book, about the Malakand Field Force, also was published when he was 23.

There has been speculation young Churchill may follow his grandfather's footsteps from journalism to politics. Recent unconfirmed rumors have said he might run for his grandfather's seat in the House of Commons when the former prime minister retires this fall.

Warmth of the smiles with which His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Pearkes greeted everyone made up for any lack in the rain throughout the afternoon to greet more than 2,563 guests. Only concession made to the weather was the plastic scarf Mrs. Pearkes tied over her attractive hat, late in the afternoon.

Married In Civil Ceremony

A pale gold peau de soie sheath dress with toning draped chiffon hat was worn by Marilyn Kathleen Taylor when she exchanged marriage vows with Derek McCooney in a recent civil ceremony.

Parents of the principals are Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Taylor, 2965 Sea View Road; and Lt.-Col. and Mrs. L. McCooney, 264 View Royal.

Only attendant, Miss Sally Leary, wore a full-skirted gown of beige taffeta with floral hat on tone. Best man was D. Caspersen.

Dr. J. F. K. English proposed the toast to the bride at an informal reception in the home of her parents. Refreshment table was covered with a moonlight linen and satin damask cloth and centred with a three-tier wedding cake. Cake was topped with yellow rosebuds and flanked by silver candelabra, cream and yellow candles and roses.

Assisting in serving guests were Mrs. A. Ashworth, Mrs. N. Leary, Mrs. J. L. M. Anderson, Mrs. K. O. Wright, the Misses Janet Stenstrom, Susan McCooney, Adrian Thomas and Andrea Taylor. Petite Miss Catherine McCooney was in charge of the guest book.

After a brief honeymoon trip and attendance at University of British Columbia summer school, the newlyweds will make their home at Smithers, B.C.

Miss Sandra Campbell, RN, of Victoria, was the guest of Miss Sharon Crowthers at Calgary, during recent Stampede Week. Before returning to this city Miss Campbell will visit relatives in Ottawa and Halifax. She is making the trip by air.

had been saying at the beginning of the conference that the communiqué must not contain anything that might upset Smith's right-wing followers threatening to declare unilateral independence.

The Africans also gave ground as Douglas-Home refused a demand, spearheaded by President Julius Nyerere of Tanganyika-Zanzibar, that he should take the initiative now in calling a conference.

It was finally agreed that—

- Southern Rhodesia should be given independence only under an African majority.
- The 200 African political prisoners there should be released.
- The only solution to the crisis is a constitutional conference.

The communiqué, which took some nine hours to draft, was at times a masterpiece of indefinite prose and varying interpretations on its meaning were expressed later.

Nyerere and Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta of Kenya both expressed the opinion that Britain would use its powers of persuasion to induce Smith to attend a constitutional conference.

TOO STRONG?

But New Zealand's Keith Holyoake commented that the communiqué contained a strong statement on Southern Rhodesia—"perhaps too strong for some."

The consensus is that it is too early now to make a long-term assessment of the just-concluded conference.

Pearson emerged as one of the most effective participants in this conference. His experience in Commonwealth and Empire meetings goes back to the 1930s.

His speech Monday was regarded as a turning point on the Rhodesian issue when—as representative of the senior white dominion—he put forward his declaration on racial equality and called for release of political prisoners in the African colony.

Canada would contribute to a "cash program" to help train the black Southern Rhodesian for roles in government and additional technical aid was offered.

Pearson said that—to ward off any attempt at unilateral independence—the Commonwealth countries should make it clear that such action would not be acceptable for Commonwealth membership, or United Nations membership.

REFLECT HIS THINKING

All these points were reflected in the communiqué as well as other Canadian initiatives. Pearson expressed satisfaction with its reference to Cyprus while "careless" expressions of viewpoint were more damaging than any place in the world.

The communiqué appeals to all countries to refrain from action which might undermine the task of the United Nations peace force in Cyprus or prejudice the UN attempts to find a solution to inter-racial strife.

The presidents and premiers also backed Pearson's ideas for strengthening UN peace-keeping machinery. A conference is expected to be held in Ottawa this fall. The communiqué said: "They agreed that consultation and co-operation among interested governments in this matter could be of great value in contributing to the peace-keeping effectiveness of the United Nations."

Canada's offer to provide assistance to developing countries—along with Britain and Australia—in a global system of satellite communications was endorsed for study. The communiqué said the project could be reviewed at the third Commonwealth education conference in Ottawa in August.

A British six-point program for increased technical aid over a broad field—the main British initiative—received approval for study.

On one of the hottest issues of the conference—proposed sanctions on South Africa because of its apartheid—the communiqué said carefully: "It was recognized, however, that there was a difference of opinion among Commonwealth countries as to the effectiveness of economic sanctions and so as to the extent to which they regarded it as right or practicable to seek to secure the abandonment of apartheid by coercive action."

REPEAT DECLARATION

Part of Prime Minister Pearson's declaration of racial equality, which he presented to the conference Monday, was repeated word for word in the final communiqué.

It said: "The prime ministers affirmed their belief that, for all Commonwealth governments, it should be an objective of policy to build in each country a structure of society which offers equal opportunity and non-discrimination for all its people, irrespective of race, color or creed."

Many of the statements Pearson made Monday during his 35-minute speech on Southern Rhodesia also found their way into the communiqué—including his appeal for the release from prison of all African leaders in Southern Rhodesia, and that Commonwealth countries should not recognize any unilateral declaration of independence.

Pearson said after the conference that the communiqué's paragraphs on Southern Rhodesia "represent quite an amazing achievement in compromise and agreement." He said "concessions had to be made by people with very strong views."

PLAYED MAJOR ROLE

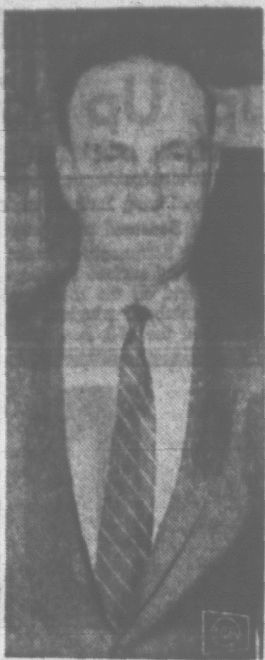

Conference sources said the Canadian prime minister played a major role during the hot, humid day in bringing opposing views together. They said there were several occasions when he coined acceptable phrases after the discussions had bogged down on important points.

One of his suggestions, involving only three or four words, was met with enthusiastic cries of "that's it."

Pearson refused to go into details on any of the knotty problems he helped solve. "It was a collective statement," he said. But he did say: "We had a good deal to do with the Cyprus paragraphs."

The communiqué said the Cyprus problem should be solved within the framework of the United Nations "and in accordance with the principles of democracy and justice."

"They (the prime ministers) appealed to all countries concerned to refrain from any action which might undermine the task of the United Nations peace-keeping force, to which a number of Commonwealth countries are contributing, or might prejudice the endeavors of the United Nations to find a lasting solution in conformity with the charter of the United Nations."

NOT GUILTY on three counts of perjury and four of obstructing justice is Roy M. Cohn, former counsel of late Sen. Joseph McCarthy's investigating committee. Verdict was reached in New York today.

Albert Head Gone to Dogs Residents Say

Albert Head residents love Albert Head but howling dogs have them on the move.

Residents of the area have been protesting for the past year against the dogs barking at the Good Shepherd Shelter, 3842 Duke Road. Now some of them are taking steps to leave the area.

Mrs. J. F. Taylor, 3833 Duke Road, considers the people of the area are being treated second rate to the dogs.

She said, "we love dogs, we have a big Collie of our own, and I believe in being good to animals but I also believe in being good to people."

BY THE HOUR

"The dogs bark by the hour and nearly drive us mad at times," reported Mrs. Taylor. The shelter, which moved into its new location a year ago, was already established before residents there knew about it, said Mrs. Taylor.

Now the residents can do little more than howl back as rezoning regulations cannot stop the dogs.

The dogs start barking about 5 a.m. and continue till after we get up, reported Gillian Nelson of Duke Road.

Other residents in the area tell the same story, but Mother Cecilia Mary, operator of the Shelter, says she has not received a complaint for the past three months.

DENIAL ISSUED

Mother Cecilia says the dogs bark only at feeding time, or when visitors are around, except when the people next door are practicing with guns.

But the noise is confined to the immediate vicinity of the Shelter as J. S. Jarman of 3849 Duke Road, a quarter of a mile away, said "I occasionally hear them if I am outside, but they don't bother me."

"Why should I complain, they came here legitimately," he said.

Letters of protest have been sent to various news media, MLA Herbert Bruch, Bishop Remi de Roo and the regional planning board.

CD Training Was Downgraded

Vancouver Island's militia had already begun to de-emphasize civil defence training before the Suttie Commission recommended, such action, according to Lt.-Col. Douglas Nelson, operations officer of 25 Militia Group.

The commission, headed by Brig. Earle Suttie, looked into militia organization.

In the first part of its report, submitted to the Commons Defence committee Tuesday, it suggested that the militia resume its former role as support for the regular army and de-emphasize its role in national survival.

But according to Col. Nelson the trend has already started.

ONLY ONE DAY

"We spent only one day on national survival at our summer camp at Albert Head this year," he said.

The militia was given the national survival role by the Conservative government and has trained at it for five years.

But Defence Minister Cardin, speaking to the Commons Defence committee, said it was neither logical nor sensible that the militia should undertake civil defence alone.

DISINTEGRATING

He said the militia's capability for field operations was disintegrating.

The roles and number of militiamen laid down by the defence department are:

- A framework for logistic and special units, 8,000 men;
- A training force of three brigade groups which would replace regular brigades on mobilization, 18,000 men;
- Internal security, 2,500 men;
- National survival, 1,500 men.

The second part of the Suttie Commission's report, containing recommendations on the dis-bandment or amalgamation of specific militia units, was not made public.

Said Mr. Cardin, "it would cause 'tremendous and useless panic' in the militia if the recommendations were published before the defence department had decided what to do with them."

Type Error Corrected In Report

A typographical error in Wednesday's Times resulted in misleading statements about Saanich council candidate Lt.-Cmdr. Harry Shergold, and the Saanich Information Committee.

Lt.-Cmdr. Shergold is retiring from the navy in December after 35 years, and has served 18 months on the Saanich advisory planning commission.

He favors the joint services board proposal, a plan for a Saanich capital budget program involving heavy borrowing, and would press for control of both police and fire departments by a joint public safety commission.

He would have full time after retirement to devote to council work, he says.

Due to the typographical error, several of these statements were incorrectly applied to candidate William Campbell.

AND THERE'S MORE

Also as a result of the error, the Saanich Information committee was described as the Saanich advisory planning commission.

The Saanich Information committee is a group of citizens interested in Saanich politics, is not an official municipal body, and has nothing to do with the Saanich advisory planning commission.

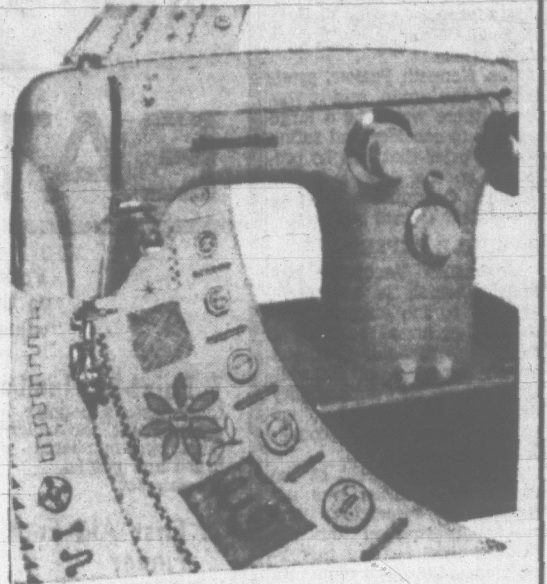

'He'll Be Beaten Like Alf Landon'

TORONTO (CP) — George Hees, president of the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges, said today U.S. Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater is a "right-wing reactionary" whose thinking is 50, 60 or 70 years old.

Mr. Hees said Senator Goldwater hasn't a chance of election, and will be defeated "much in the same manner as Alf Landon," the Republican candidate in the 1936 U.S. presidential election.

THIS GOOD LIFE

This good life may be identified by a camping trip, a new hit play, or a quiet evening at home. But here in Canada it is really much more than these or other material things.

More than anything else, the good life is brought about by the freedom to choose your own way. This freedom, which is yours for every decision from a brand of fishing tackle to your choice of a career, makes life rich and exciting.

And what provides the information for your choices in material things? Probably advertising. It tells you what is available . . . makes even the everyday choices interesting and fun.

Protest Rally Tonight at 8

A public protest meeting here and consultations with an American transit expert in Vancouver were to be held by opponents to the B.C. Hydro's proposed bus fare boosts today.

The Victoria meeting will be held at 8 tonight in Woodsworth Hall, 721 Courtney, under sponsorship of a recently-formed Greater Victoria Citizens' Committee to protest the increase.

Mrs. Kenneth Peaker, president of the group, said it was hoped there would be a large turnout to consider and refine a draft brief that will be presented to the Aug. 5 Public Utilities Commission hearing in the Law Courts building.

MAY HIRE EXPERT

Meanwhile, Vancouver city council, which is adamantly opposed to the suggested increases, arranged to have a meeting with John Curtin, a transit expert from Philadelphia. There was a possibility he would be retained to analyze the future of Vancouver bus operations.

A surprising aspect of the Vancouver situation was uncovered by researchers preparing information for the July 27 PUC hearing there—most bus drivers use private cars to go to work even though they have passes.

CCF Pioneer Died Here At Age 89

A man who campaigned for the CCF party in every election since the party was organized in 1933, David H. Bryce, died Tuesday in Sidney.

Mr. Bryce, born in Parry Sound, Ont., in 1875, moved to Saskatchewan in 1904 as a pioneer farmer. During his life on the prairies he was a member of the Non-Partisan League, the Canadian Grain Growers' Association and the Wheat Pool. In 1919 he moved to Victoria, and for many years was an elder in First United Church, a member of the Prairie Club and an enthusiastic bowler at the Victoria Lawn Bowling Club.

Twelve years later he moved to 6571 Oldfield Road in Central Saanich where he took up fruit farming and joined the Wilkenson Road United Church.

THIRTY YEARS

For the past 30 years he has played an active role in the CCF party and for many years was a member on the Provincial Council.

He is survived by the widow, Hilda; a son, Murray of Massachusetts and five brothers, William of Saskatoon, Hugh and Andrew of Vancouver, Alex of Abbotsford and Bert of Flint, Michigan.

Funeral service will be held Saturday at 3:15 p.m. in McCall's Funeral Home.

U.K. ATOMIC WORKERS SUFFER MORE SICKNESS

Up, Up and Away... the Flying Bathtub

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—A more than 30 manned flights and landings at the desert test centre at nearby Edwards Air Force Base. Project officials say its concept offers great encouragement that spacemen of the future will be able to fly their space ships back to earth like an airplane, selecting their landing spots.

The Bathtub, a wingless vehicle called the M-2, has made

The Bathtub, officially called the lunar landing research vehicle, is scheduled for its first flight next month. It is a complex maze of tubing, wiring and rocket engines which will enable pilots to simulate lunar landings and takeoffs.

The 20-foot-long M-2 has a rounded plywood body, giving it a bathtub appearance. The shape provides just enough lift to keep it from falling like a rock. Small tail surfaces on either side give the M-2 some stability and directional control.

TORY MP URGES GOV'T TO MUTE CBC ON BARRY

OTTAWA (CP)—A Conservative MP urged today that the CBC be asked to tone down commentators' attacks on Senator Barry Goldwater, Republican candidate for the U.S. presidency.

Wallace Nesbitt, MP for Oxford, said in the Commons many Americans think the CBC is the official voice of Canada. Such attacks could harm Canada-U.S. relations.

H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West) said Goldwater comment on Britain's BBC is "lurid" compared to that on the CBC.

'RACISM AND JINGOISM'

SAN FRANCISCO—Measured by the vote on the proposed amendment to the civil rights plank in the platform, the moderates are about one-third of the delegates to the Republican convention.

They may in fact be somewhat stronger than that because there must be a number of delegates who voted with the Goldwater forces in order not to embarrass the presidential candidate of the party.

Yet, the Goldwater strength was better than two to one in the count of delegates. But he has never been able to show anything like such strength in any primary when the Republican voters were counted.

The primary victory in California, which started the landslide of delegates, was won by

... U.S. Republican presidential nominee

Barry Pledges 'Vigorous Fight'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Barry Goldwater pointed the Republican party along a conservative road today and promised a strong campaign against the Democrats with Rep. William E. Miller of New York as his vice-presidential running mate.

Goldwater, 55-year-old senator from Arizona, captured the GOP presidential nomination in a first-ballot victory at the party's national convention after routing his disorganized and inept opposition at every turn.

Miller, a tough campaigner who has been serving as Republican national chairman, responded to Goldwater's bid by saying he would be delighted to accept the No. 2 spot on the 1964 ticket.

The Republican delegates will ratify their new leader's selection of his campaign partner in a vice-presidential balloting at the Cow Palace late today. Goldwater will also make his acceptance speech tonight.

Goldwater meanwhile pledged himself to wage "a vigorous campaign" against President Johnson before the November election. He promised to conduct his fight for the White House in issues, not personalities and said he expected Johnson to do the same.

The vote Wednesday night was a crushing defeat for the liberal and moderate wing of the party.

White Backlash

Senator Goldwater's problem is that the most effective way to draw Democrats away from Johnson will at the same time push Republicans towards Johnson.

It is quite evident in the platform that Senator Goldwater is relying heavily on attracting Democrats from the "white backlash," and by appealing to the ethnic groups from the captive nations of eastern Europe.

To a certain degree, the two appeals are complementary, for the white backlash is noticeably strong among recent immigrants from eastern Europe.

These are the hottest elements in his campaign strategy. To exploit the white backlash of resentment against Negroes, he will not use the word "enforce" in talking about civil rights. They are to be allowed to think that he will not enforce the act.

To lure the immigrants who have strong family ties in the

CONFERENCE ENDS

Pearson Stars In Compromise On Rhodesia

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN

LONDON (CP)—Black Africa leaders headed for an African "summit" meeting in Cairo today and, says Prime Minister Pearson of Canada, they carried something worthwhile from the week-long London Commonwealth conference.

HIGHWAY 16

Three Men Vanish In North

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—RCMP here, mystified over the disappearance of three men on the 488-mile road between here and Prince George, completed a search of the highway Wednesday without finding a trace of the missing trio.

The latest to disappear was John Mehler, 47, who recently resigned as head of the University of Alaska library. His wife reported him missing July 8.

She told RCMP she and her husband were driving to the United States in separate cars. Her husband stopped for gas and when he failed to catch up with her she retraced her route but could not find him.

June 27, brothers Arne and Harold Hovden of North Vancouver rented a car here for a drive to Prince George. They haven't been seen since. The car is also missing.

The RCMP search Wednesday was an effort to determine if the cars may have left the road and plunged down a steep embankment.

Prince Rupert is a coastal city a few miles south of the Alaska Panhandle.

Cyprus Heats Up

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI)—Fresh fighting combined with reports of new arrivals of men and weapons from Greece today heightened the danger of full-scale war in Cyprus.

The 13th conference of Commonwealth prime ministers that closed Wednesday night "proved itself virile, interesting, real — and, above all, alive," says The Daily Mail. "Nobody has 'triumphed,'" says The Daily Express.

Pearson encompassed both those views when he met reporters Wednesday.

On Southern Rhodesia, the rock on which some feared the Commonwealth might founder, the conference formulated a communique statement that Pearson described as "an achievement of compromise and concession."

PLUNGED IN

It is significant that the 6,000-word communique plunged straight into racial questions, using word-for-word the declaration of racial equality submitted by Pearson.

The 18 Commonwealth leaders expressed the view that a conference on Southern Rhodesian independence should be convened with the leaders of all parties free to attend, a stipulation that would mean freeing political prisoners.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home said later he did not know whether a constitutional conference could be called. He told a press conference he could not express an opinion until he had been in consultation with Southern Rhodesia's premier, Ian Smith.

CAN'T UPSET SMITH

The communique also said the granting of independence was a matter to be decided by the British government but, as Pearson pointed out, Sir Alec showed considerable flexibility on the whole issue. The British Continued on Page 31

ALL-OUT EFFORT TO AVERT STRIKE

The provincial government is making a full-scale effort to avert a strike of 4,000 employees planned Friday in the Kootenay mining industry.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson said today that a cabinet minister and two top labor department officials are attempting to bring about a last-minute settlement.

The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers has called a strike against Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. lead-zinc plants at Kimberley and Trail.

Mines Minister Donald Brothers, and conciliation officers Reg Clements and E. P. Fisher were meeting with both sides today.

"I am hopeful that the issue can be settled without a work stoppage," Mr. Peterson said.

The strike, set for 3 p.m. Friday, would be the first at Cominco in 45 years.

The union has rejected a conciliation board recommendation on wages and working hours.

No Baby-Kissing, Hand-Shaking Role for Barry

By WALTER R. MEARS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—While the campaign crowd cheered him, Arizona's Senator Barry Goldwater stood smiling and waiting—and a trifle impatient.

For nearly 10 minutes the ovation thundered through New York's Madison Square Garden, last spring, and the chant "We Want Barry" became a roar.

"You'll get him if you'll just be quiet," the senator shouted.

Goldwater's reaction to that burst of cheers may be unique in presidential campaigning, but so in many ways, is Goldwater.

The biggest triumph of his primary campaign—in California—wrought no change in the senator's nonchalant outlook.

He welcomed it with a word of thanks to his supporters—then took the back door out of his hotel to avoid the crowd of jubilant fans.

"He's not a man who likes to exploit his triumphs," said campaign director Denton Kitchel. "He acts pretty much in victory as he does in defeat."

By his own account, Goldwater is bucking the trend of history in seeking the presidency as a senator from a small western state.

OUTSPOKEN ON HUSTINGS

"And he has said some things on the campaign trail that would have had other politicians washing their own mouths with soap."

"I'm not one of those baby-kissing, hand-shaking, blintzing candidates," he said once. "I don't like to insult the American intelligence by thinking that slapping people on the back is going to get you votes."

An Episcopalian, Anglican Goldwater doesn't campaign on Sundays. He has walked briskly through more than one ARREST ORDER was sought today for Dr. Samuel Sheppard, scheduled to be released from Ohio penitentiary later today.

"Dr. Sam" was convicted in 1954 of killing his pregnant wife, and release was ordered when judge said original trial was "mockery" of justice.

Prosecutor asked that arrest order be issued on original first-degree murder indictment on which Sheppard was tried 16 years ago. (See story Page 15).

FAT LITTLE GIRL SACRIFICES LIFE

Nobody Laughs at Her Any More

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto girl, whom everyone teased because she was chubby, sacrificed her life to push a friend to safety when they were trapped on a railway trestle

Wednesday. It was her 14th birthday.

Carol Strudwick and her friend, Jean Apps, 13, were returning from a swimming pool in the east end of the city when they decided to take a short cut over the trestle.

"Carol saved my life," Jean sobbed. "I felt her push me off the tracks. We were talking and we didn't hear the train until it was just a little way behind us. We didn't hear the whistle."

Jean rolled to safety and escaped with leg grazes and shock but Carol's foot got stuck in the tracks and she was hurled onto a steel crossbeam below the trestle.

Jean's 15-year-old brother, a witness to the accident, said Carol's last words were "How's Jean?"

She was dead on arrival at hospital.

The girls had been classmates at school and were "like peas in a pod," said Jean's father,

William Apps. "She sacrificed herself."

William Strudwick, Carol's father, said Wednesday night he had bought a new dress and a bathing suit for his daughter's birthday and had intended to give her $20 to spend at camp next week.

Sometime when you're out trolling for salmon with frozen and packaged bait bought from sporting goods store or marina, you may pass an old hand whose boat sports what from a distance looks like a slender bowsprit.

This object is a herring rake. Back in the handling days, when a rowboat fisherman could make his winter stake from the summer coho run, it was standard, equipment, and its use a familiar art the length of our coast.

Sweep its needle-armed edge through a minnow school, shake your wriggling silver booty into a boat-bottom canvas, transfer the take to a can of salt water, and you had for your slawish hook the tidbit which no hungry salmon can refuse.

The weighted leg-line trailing deep below with its Diamond or Gibbs-Stuart spoon might fetch a couple of spring salmon to unload when the packer stopped by. But for a payload of coho, a man needed minnows.

I have seen and used herring rakes which were no more than clumsy slats peppered with finishing nails. Your weather-bitten handliner of the between-war years would scorn any such haywire rigs, however.

His rake was a thing of grace if not beauty, shaped to a functional design by hours of patient whittling and scraping, and toothed with needle-sharp piano wire snipped from the coil that furnished his spring salmon leaders.

It entered the water without splash, minnow-scaring resistance, passed through a bait school with a clean and easy sweep, and emerged with its catch securely impaled.

A good herring rake was and is a tool of the sort a man guards jealously and lends with growing reluctance. I'll show mine gladly to any interested fisherman; but don't, please, try to borrow it!

Much better to custom-fabricate your own. This indeed, you must do if you want one, since, to the best of my knowledge, herring rakes aren't and never have been sold in the stores.

The project fits nicely into a wet weekend or a couple of basement evenings. Tools needed are a sharp knife and a plane if you have one, materials—a 10-foot length of straight-grained western red cedar four inches wide, cut from a dressed half-inch plank; sandpaper both coarse and fine; and a package of 100 brass herring rake pins.

(Use piano wire if you like, but the pins are handier and more durable. If your sporting goods supplier doesn't carry them, I can tell you where to get them, at something under a buck a pack.) Plane or otherwise reduce your cedar slat until, in cross-section, its shape is a flat oval three and a half inches wide and just under half an inch thick at the centre. Then, with finicky care, go to work on the final yard, which forms the blade. Width and centre thickness stay the same, as does the raking edge. But what in an aircraft wing we'd call the trailing edge is thinned to about one-sixteenth of an inch.

Taper the blade-tip to a corresponding edge, sand your rake to a velvet-smooth finish, then we're ready to fit the teeth. To do this, cut the head off each brass pin at a slight angle, and with pliers, push the thick or cut end about half an inch into the soft cedar.

Inserted three-eighths of an inch apart, these teeth will arm the blade in such fashion that you won't run a careless hand or rump along it twice.

For a neater and easier job, start your row of tooth-holes with a fine drill.

The finished rake, if these instructions haven't thrown you, will be a light, balanced tool which utilizes a standard principle of aerodynamic design.

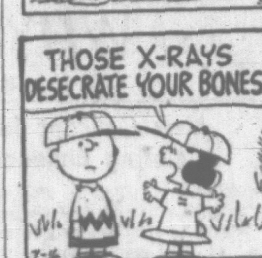

Left bare, the cedar will weather to a dull grey, but if you wish to dupe your rake up, give it a coat or two of dark green boat paint.

To make it work for you, slowly cruise along a kelp bed or over a sheltered eel-grass pasture until you catch the fathom-deep twinkle or the myriad tiny surface rings of a bait-school.

Then, presuming that your boat is small and open, stand braced in the bows, paddling kayak-style with the rake until the young herring or needle-fine are glinting below just ahead. Slip the smooth rake handle through your palms, judge the depth, and take an easy, edge-on canoe paddle stroke.

Follow through till the teeth clear the surface, and if you've scored, shake anywhere from a couple to a score of minnows aboard.

Bouncing and flipping off your canvas is live bait which will lure salmon when all other artifices fail. Rake all you need—but only what you need—stow the rake handliner-style in the bows, and go catch yourself a fish!

BIRTH TOTALS NOT FULL STORY

By MARGE GILROY

They say statistics don't lie, but often there are facts and figures behind the statistics that tell a different story.

Recently Nanaimo doctors expressed alarm at the 5 per cent illegitimacy rate in the number of births for that area. After this Health Minister Eric Martin, quoted the provincial average as being 7.3 per cent.

Further investigation into the statistical report of 1962 revealed that the percentage was even higher in some of the municipalities on lower Vancouver Island.

Other figures show: In Oak Bay 9.1 per cent of all live births were illegitimate; Saanich, 4.7 per cent; Esquimalt, not quite 2 per cent; Victoria, 7.6 per cent and Central Saanich, 8 per cent.

PLACE OF RESIDENCE

Area statistics are compiled from birth certificates on which the mother records her place of residence. For many unmarried girls this address is often the address of a home where the girl has been employed and lived during her pregnancy.

Gordon Wright, director of the Family and Children's Service, said today that these were some of the facts that are never revealed in statistics.

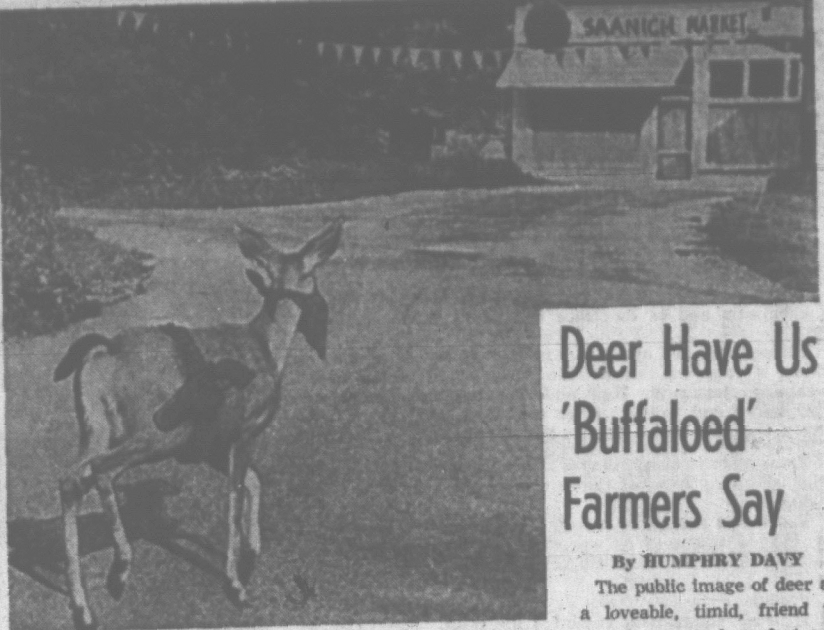

He pointed out that there are more unmarried girls placed in homes in Oak Bay than any other nearby municipality, and for this reason the number if illegitimate births recorded for that area is exceptionally high. Similarly Mr. Wright said he could not recall any girls being placed in homes in Esquimalt, recently. There, the rate was slightly less than 2 per cent.

Many unmarried girls leave their own place of residence and move to another area to have their babies. For this reason the figures quoted for each municipality are not indicative of promiscuity in that particular area.

Another fact which should be taken into consideration, Mr. Wright said, is the ratio of adolescent girls in comparison with the number of women in the child-bearing age.

In Oak Bay, Mr. Wright said, the percentage figure for adolescents is 33, in Central Saanich, 32, Esquimalt and Victoria 23 and Saanich 27.

Deer Have Us 'Buffaloed' Farmers Say

By HUMPHRY DAVY

The public image of deer as a lovable, timid, friend to man is remote from fact and reality according to a group of Saanich residents and farmers.

They say bambi is a bandit.

They complain that deer are making a mess of gardens, damaging fruit orchards, eating their cabbage and cauliflower, and in some cases they have ruined strawberry plantations.

The complainants feel it is about time the true nature of the deer was made known. He's more of a shmoo than a shmoo.

Scourge of Saanich

"He's the picaresque and marauder of the animal world," said Geof Vantreigh. "The deer does more damage than all the other wild animals put together."

Except for bonafide farmers, who must obtain special permits, no one is allowed to shoot deer out of season.

Game officials who have been confronted with the problem of deer damage for years, have not yet been able to devise an effective control to prevent damage.

Most of the trouble is occurring in the Old West Saanich Road, Oldfield Road, Wallace Drive, Butchart's Gardens and Mount Newton areas. The deer move in from the Highland District and heavily wooded areas of the Saanich peninsula.

'They Go Too Far'

Mr. Vantreigh, who has a 200-acre farm on Wallace Drive, said the ravenous appetite of the deer is giving his young cauliflower and strawberry plants a bad time.

"The deer isn't really friendly," he said. "He has gall and wants a handout. I avoid shooting them, but sometimes they go too far."

He recalled on one occasion when he let a deer roam about his farm, the doe took advantage of the situation by later bringing two young fawns to feed on his plants.

D. E. Welsh, 5630 Oldfield Road, a lover of wildlife, said he hasn't yet had a crop from his young cherry trees due to deer eating the young shoots.

Worst of the Lot

"I like to see deer around, but they go too far," he said. "I have pheasants, a coon and muskrat around the place, but they don't give me any trouble."

Joseph Condor, 5551 Oldfield Road, said the animals have ruined his 21 acres of strawberry patch.

Frank Doyle, fruit farmer on the Old West Saanich Road, he uses sheep to keep the deer away from his cherry orchard.

"They don't like the smell of sheep and keep away," he said. "But once you move the sheep they are in again."

Injured Attacks

R. H. Welsh, 5651 Old West Saanich Road, said he can't see anything gentle about a deer. He said he threw rocks at three of them who were eating young apples off his tree and not one moved.

"There's nothing gentle about a deer," he said. "He comes out in the open and takes what he likes. Compare the cougar who doesn't even show his whiskers when anyone is around."

Most land owners agree that the deer draws more public sympathy than any other wild animal when something happens to it. They attributed this to childhood stories depicting the deer as friendly and gentle.

"But it isn't so," they said. "He's crafty, wasteful and an unrelenting thief who draws on your sympathy to rob you—the con man of the forests."

$1.62 Million Jobs Lined Up

Preliminary scheduling of some $1,621,000-worth of capital works over the next two years was approved by Victoria city finance committee this morning, including the start of two major projects next month.

All the work involved was approved by ratepayers June 18 as part of the $3,387,000 five-year capital budget.

City manager Dennis Young said although all the items in the budget were highly desirable it was not possible to start them all at once.

The priority schedule was drawn up after studying timing needed to obtain the maximum in federal and provincial grants and create a smooth work flow for city staff so that heavy overtime or temporary staff costs could be avoided.

COUNCIL MUST O.K.

If council agrees, all or stages of these projects will start in:

August—$50,000 to replace two bridges over Bowker with culverts, $125,000 to extend Finlayson from Douglas through to Jutland at Burnside; negotiations for purchasing some $350,000 worth of land involved in all the five-year plan's projects including road, and park expansions;

September—$354,000 parking garage in the civic precinct;

November—$64,000 Bastion Square restoration; $162,000 for extension of Blanshard to Topaz and widening Rose Street;

Early Summer of 1965—$333,000 for first stage of a trunk sewer program in the James Bay area, $30,000 to extend Superior Street to Cook; the fall of 1965—first stage of downtown mails, $66,000 for Topaz Park development.

Mr. Young said a total of $209,320 in government grants was anticipated to help with all this work, reducing the city's net cost to $1,411,680.

They will study in the area of business administration and economics, for which the foundation awarded 184 fellowships to persons at 47 colleges and universities around the world.

Bonner Clearing Way For Bennett Bank Bid

Attorney-General Robert Bonner flies to Ottawa Sunday for an advance parole with lawyers about B.C.'s bid for a new bank. Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Education Minister Leslie Peterson will follow Tuesday.

They will all appear before the senate's banking committee next Wednesday, seeking a charter for the Bank of British Columbia.

Mr. Bonner said he will meet Ottawa lawyer William Burke-Robertson, who has been retained as counsel for the would-be bankers.

"I will see if there are any preliminary points which require discussion in connection with the premier's appearance before the banking committee," Mr. Bonner said.

Meanwhile, the premier plans to fire off a preliminary broadside of his own at a press conference here Monday afternoon.

Mr. Bennett will have a formal brief to submit to the senate committee and is also expected to take the stand for questioning.

The B.C. government has legislative power to buy up to one quarter of the shares in the new bank, which will have a capital of $100 million.

However, the premier has said recently the government might buy only 5 to 10 per cent of the shares.

Also going east in the bank party are Deputy Finance Minister G. S. Bryson, Assistant Deputy William Veitch and possibly Deputy Attorney-General Gilbert Kennedy.

The five provisional directors of the bank are also expected to be in Ottawa, although the premier will be doing most of the talking.

Both sides are hopeful of settlement without interruption still in progress today.

Lumber Yard, Shop Complex For Quadra

Land is being levelled at Quadra Street and Reynolds Road to make room for a $200,000 lumber yard, warehouse and shopping centre complex.

Developers are Slegg Bros. Construction and Lumber Co. of Victoria and Sidney. The company has a sales office in town now, but this will be its first retail lumber yard in Greater Victoria.

The lumber yard and warehouse will take up more than 15,000 square feet and will be joined by nine or 10 shopping centre units.

SEEK TENANTS

"We are already seeking out national stores and companies as tenants," company president Eric Slegg said today.

The land adjacent to the development, fronted by Borden and Reynolds, has been purchased by Greater Victoria School Board as a site for a junior secondary school.

Slegg Bros. has been in the lumber business here for 16 years and added house construction five years ago.

YEAR AFTER YEAR

Blue, White White, Blue For Licence

Blue and white will be permanent colors for B.C. motor vehicle licence plates, a government official said today.

He said it has been decided not to change colors next year.

In the past colors were changed every second year.

Next year's licence plates will be the same color scheme as 1963—blue with white numbers.

In 1966 the colors will be the same as this year's—white with blue numbers.

They will be reversed each succeeding year.

"We will still be beautiful, too," said the motor vehicle branch spokesman.

The "Beautiful B.C." slogan started this year will be retained.

FOLLOW EXAMPLE

The spokesman said it has been decided to follow the example of some other provinces and states and use two colors only for at least several years.

He also said that in a few years B.C. will be forced to use letters as well as numbers on licence plates.

At present there are more than 600,000 licences.

The total will reach a million in three to four years, the official predicted.

He said B.C. will probably adopt the three letter-three number system now used in the states of Washington and California.

This has proved the best arrangement, he said.

There would not be enough room on standard sized plates to put an extra number without reducing the visibility of the licence, he said.

TOPICS of the DAY

The stage show Rhythm and Romance will be held at Butchart Gardens Friday at 8:30 p.m., not tonight as previously announced.

However, a puppet show will be held tonight at 7:30 and again at 9 o'clock.

USS Interpreter, a United States Navy radar picket ship will berth at Esquimalt Harbor for a four-day visit August 27. Purpose of the visit is to provide shore leave and recreation for her company of 14 officers and 140 enlisted personnel.

Ask The Times

Q. Could you please tell me if the Island Princess, which used to ply between Victoria and the Gulf Islands during the 20s and early 30s is still in operation in these waters? W.E.S.

A. Yes it is—only under a new name and new ownership. It is known as the Cy Peck and is run intermittently in the Gulf Islands by the B.C. Ferry Authority. It is based at Fulford Harbor.

The ship was launched in 1913 in Tacoma and was named the Daily. She became the Island Princess during her 1918-1929 CPE service.

An Island Princess launched in Vancouver in 1958 is running a 40-mile daily service between Sointula and Kelsey Bay for Coast Ferries Ltd. of Vancouver.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve problems or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer. Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

At noon today Victoria's temperature was only 54.9 degrees, well below the record low maximum of 56.7 on July 16, 1965.

Sunshine for July is now 46 hours below the normal, and continued unsettled weather is forecast.

Nearly 1,000 school teachers in District 61 will report for duty with school re-opening Sept. 8, a boost of 43 over last term.

There will be 963 teachers on the payroll to look after a predicted enrolment of 27,000 children, or about 1,000 more than went on vacation this month.

Steady enrolment growth produces a parallel staff expansion, both aspects running ahead of the district's ability to provide space.

Contemporary photography from all over the world is on display for Victorians this week and next.

The Popular Photography International exhibit of 73 black and white photographs is in the Fine Arts department of the Victoria Public Library.

It covers a broad range of subject matter from dramatic and human interest photographs to landscapes and outstanding examples of portraiture.

Announcement was made in Ottawa today, at closing session of the national convention of Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, that the 1966 biennial convention will be held in Victoria, in the Empress Hotel.

The five-day meeting, expected to take place in the month of July, will bring to the city more than 400 representatives of clubs in all 10 provinces of Canada.

The Mungo Martin Memorial Fund reached a total of $456 today with donations from five contributors.

The fund proposed by Colin Graham, director of the Art Gallery is to finance a $5,500 plaque in memory of the great Indian carver.

Donations are being accepted by the Times and Colonist and may be sent to the Mungo Martin Memorial Fund, care of the paper.

Recent contributors are:

Europe Press Hits
Choice of Goldwater

LONDON (AP)—The nomination of Senator Barry Goldwater aroused editorial apprehension in Britain and most of Europe today.

Government officials refrained from public comment, but newspapers in general described the choice of the Arizona senator as a victory for the forces of reaction and a threat to world peace.

Bitterest of all, predictably, was the Communist press. Pravda, the organ of the Soviet Communist party, said

Goldwater was running on the "most reactionary, bellicose and adventurist pre-election platform in American history."

The Moscow newspaper Sovetskaya Rossiya declared that Goldwater was backed by a coalition "consisting of the most aggressive capitalist groups, racists, trade union opponents, crusaders of anti-communism and Ku Klux Klanners."

There were hard words for the Republican standard bearer from anti-Communist journals of Western Europe as well.

CALLED CATASTROPHE

Stockholm's liberal Expressen, the biggest daily in Scandinavia, described the nomination as "a catastrophe for the Republicans, a threat against the United States, a danger to the world."

Copenhagen's liberal Ekstrabladet asserted:

"The blackest reaction won the battle in the Cow Palace. The progressive forces that have ruled in the Republican party since 1940 were trampled down under hooves this morning."

Cassandra, columnist of Britain's 5,000,000-circulation pro-Labor Daily Mirror wrote from the Cow Palace:

"The corpse of much that is decent and wise and tolerant in American society is in the coffin, although the lid has not yet been finally screwed down."

"Goldwater has won because he appeals to the frustrations of millions of Americans who are dissatisfied with the apparent ingratitude of foreign nations, who are sick and afraid of communism and who, at home, dislike the political and economic emergence of the Negroes."

The Conservative Daily Mail said Goldwater's win at San Francisco could affect the British general election campaign this fall and subject opposition Labor Leader Harold Wilson to "an acute tactical dilemma over his party's defence policy."

"The question now is: Can Britain risk handing over her deterrent power to Senator Goldwater if he becomes president."

"More than ever, Conservatives will argue the necessity for Britain to rely on her own nuclear deterrent."

The London Times correspondent in San Francisco spoke of the lengthy applause and sounding of horns that greeted former President Eisenhower's convention criticism of some American columnists and commentators.

DISLIKE CRITICISM

"It was," the correspondent added, "a sudden and enormous emotional release, indicating the totalitarian hatred of the Goldwater camp for free comment that in any way suggests that their leaders is less than superhuman."

"As Senator Goldwater had earlier suggested that Germany

SAN FRANCISCO—Measured by the vote on the proposed amendment to the civil rights plank in the platform, the moderates are about one-third of the delegates to the Republican convention.

They may in fact be somewhat stronger than that because there must be a number of delegates who voted with the Goldwater forces in order not to embarrass the presidential candidate of the party.

Yet, the Goldwater strength was better than two to one in the count of delegates. But he has never been able to show anything like such strength in any primary when the Republican voters were counted.

The primary victory in California, which started the landslide of delegates, was won by the very narrow margin of 51 to 49 per cent.

The figures prove that the capture of the Republican party has been effected by working on and winning over delegates who represent only a minority of the Republican voters.

As a candidate, Senator Goldwater has to win back anti-Goldwater Republicans and to draw Democrats away from Johnson. How he goes about doing that will determine the nature of the coming campaign.

WHITE BACKLASH

Senator Goldwater's problem is that the most effective way to draw Democrats away from Johnson will at the same time push Republicans towards Johnson.

It is quite evident in the platform that Senator Goldwater is relying heavily on attracting Democrats from the "white backlash," and by appealing to the ethnic groups from the captive nations of eastern Europe.

To a certain degree, the two appeals are complementary, for the white backlash is noticeably strong among recent immigrants from eastern Europe.

These are the hottest elements in his campaign strategy. To exploit the white backlash of resentment against Negroes, he will not use the word "enforce" in talking about civil rights. They are to be allowed to think that he will not enforce the act.

To lure the immigrants who have strong family ties in the COLUMBUS (AP)—A circuit court appellate judge ordered Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard returned to prison today only a few hours after the convicted wife slayer was released from Ohio penitentiary.

State Attorney-General William Saxbe's office said Judge Lester Cevill signed an order in Dayton, staying a decision by U.S. District Court that granted Sheppard a release under habeas corpus proceedings.

Sheppard and his lawyer, F. Lee Bailey of Boston, were reported en route to Cleveland by automobile.

The order followed an appeal to the circuit court in Cincinnati by the state from the district court's action in freeing Sheppard on the basis he did not receive a fair trial.

Assistant Attorney-General Larry Snyder said that a federal marshal probably will be ordered to pick up Sheppard as soon as Cecil's order is filed with the appeals court in Cincinnati.

He said he expected Sheppard to be held in custody pending outcome of the appeal.

Rhodesia
Solution Reached

By JOSEPH MACSWEN

LONDON (CP)—Black Africa leaders headed for an African "summit" meeting in Cairo today and, says Prime Minister Pearson of Canada, they carried something worthwhile from the week-long London Commonwealth conference.

The 13th conference of Commonwealth prime ministers that closed Wednesday night "proved itself virile, interesting, real — and, above all, alive," says The Daily Express.

Pearson encompassed both those views when he met reporters Wednesday. On Southern Rhodesia, the rock on which some feared the Commonwealth might founder, the conference formulated a communique statement that Pearson described as "an achievement of compromise and concession."

It is significant that the 6,000-word communique plunged straight into racial questions, using word-for-word the declaration of racial equality submitted by Pearson.

The 18 Commonwealth leaders expressed the view that a conference on Southern Rhodesian independence should be convened with the leaders of all parties free to attend, a stipulation that would mean freeing political prisoners.

Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home said later he did not know whether a constitutional conference could be called. He told a press conference he could not express an opinion until he had been in consultation with Southern Rhodesia's premier, Ian Smith.

The communique also said the granting of independence was a matter to be decided by the British government but, as Pearson pointed out, Sir Alec showed considerable flexibility on the whole issue. The British

No Baby-Kissing,
Hand-Shaking
Role for Barry

By WALTER R. MEARS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—While the campaign crowd cheered him, Arizona's Senator Barry Goldwater stood smiling and waiting—

For nearly 10 minutes the ovation thundered through New York's Madison Square Garden, last spring, and the chant We Want Barry became a roar.

"You'll get him if you'll just be quiet," the senator shouted. Goldwater's reaction to that burst of cheers may be unique in presidential campaigning, but so in many ways, is Goldwater.

The biggest triumph of his primary campaign—in California—wrought no change in the senator's nonchalant outlook.

He welcomed it with a word of thanks to his supporters—then took the back door out of his hotel to avoid the crowd of jubilant fans.

"He's not a man who likes to exploit his triumphs," said campaign director Denis O'Kitchel. "He acts pretty much in victory as he does in defeat."

By his own account, Goldwater is bucking the trend of history in seeking the presidency as a senator from a small western state.

OUTSPOKEN ON HUSTINGS And he has said some things on the campaign trail that would have had other politicians washing their own mouths with soap.

"I'm not one of those baby-kissing, hand-shaking, blintz-eating candidates," he said once. "I don't like to insult the American intelligence by thinking that slapping people on the back is going to get you votes."

An Episcopalian (Anglican) Goldwater doesn't campaign on Sundays. He has walked briskly through more than one

GOP Candidate
Pledges Fight

Mail Clogs
British Post Offices

LONDON (Reuters)—Mail sorting offices throughout Britain stopped work completely today as the country's 125,000 postmen staged a one-day official strike, the first in 73 years.

The country's mail services already had been put in a chaotic state by a series of wildcat strikes and overtime bans during the last week.

Today's strike appeared to be almost 100-per-cent effective.

Postmen planned demonstrations today in London and other centres in support of their claim for a 10-per-cent wage increase. The government has offered a four-per-cent raise.

A union spokesman said today no peace talks were in sight.

The one-day strike will be followed by a two-week overtime ban and a "work-to-rule" slowdown.

Goldwater, 55-year-old senator from Arizona, captured the GOP presidential nomination in a first-ballot victory at the party's national convention after routing his disorganized and inept opposition at every turn.

Miller, a tough campaigner who has been serving as Republican national chairman, responded to Goldwater's bid by saying he would be delighted to accept the No. 2 spot on the 1964 ticket.

The Republican delegates will ratify their new leader's selection of his campaign partner in vice-presidential balloting at the Cow Palace late today. Goldwater will also make his acceptance speech tonight.

Goldwater meanwhile pledged himself to wage "a vigorous campaign" against President Johnson before the November election. He promised to conduct his fight for the White House in issues, not personalities and said he expected Johnson to do the same.

The vote Wednesday night was a crushing defeat for the liberal and moderate wing

Meeting Tonight In Kamloops Strike

KAMLOOPS (CP)—Striking Kamloops carpenters were scheduled to meet tonight with their employers in an effort to end a walkout that began Monday.

The move was the latest development in the strike by about 400 carpenters in the Kamloops-Okanagan region. It was also the first time that a small segment of the carpenters had scheduled a meeting with individual contractors.

Washouts Plague Northern Highway

DAWSON CREEK, B.C. (CP)—Highway department crews today constructed a second temporary detour over a creek between Dawson Creek and the Alberta border.

Two weeks ago a bridge at the location on Highway Two was washed out and replaced by a detour. The detour was washed out early today when the creek was swollen by heavy runoffs from recent rains.

Building Material Tax to Stay

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Gordon repeated in the Commons today that he isn't considering withdrawal of the sales tax on building materials, imposed last year.

He was replying to Michael Starr (PC—Ontario).

Sievers Goes Back to Senators

WASHINGTON (AP)—Washington Senators announced today the conditional purchase from Philadelphia Phillies of Roy Sievers, once a slugging first baseman for the old Senators.

Sievers, 37, who was hitting only .183 in part-time duty with the Phillies, was purchased for the waiver price of $20,000. He has been out with an injured leg, but Senator officials said this was only a pulled muscle and he would be ready for action soon.

U.S. Soldier Goes Berserk In Korea

SEOUL, Korea (UPI)—An American soldier went on a frenzied shooting spree with an M-14 rifle today, killing one man from his company and wounding three others before he fell and died from return fire.

ALL-OUT EFFORT TO AVERT STRIKE

The provincial government is making a full-scale effort to avert a strike of 4,000 employees planned Friday in the Kootenay mining industry.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson said today that a cabinet minister and two top labor department officials are attempting to bring about a last-minute settlement.

The International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers has called a strike against Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co. lead-zinc plants at Kimberley and Trail.

Mines Minister Donald Brothers, and conciliation officers Reg Clements and E. P. Fisher were meeting with both sides today.

"I am hopeful that the issue can be settled without a work stoppage," Mr. Peterson said. The strike, set for 3 p.m. Friday, would be the first at Cominco in 45 years.

The union has rejected a conciliation board recommendation on wages and working hours.

TORONTO HEROINE

Little Chubby Girl
Gives Life for Pal

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto girl, whom everyone teased because she was chubby, sacrificed her life to push a friend to safety when they were trapped on a railway trestle Wednesday. It was her 14th birthday.

Carol Strudwick and her friend, Jean Apps, 13, were returning from a swimming pool in the east end of the city when they decided to take a short cut over the trestle.

"Carol saved my life," Jean sobbed. "I felt her push me off the tracks. We were talking and we didn't hear the train until it was just a little way behind us. We didn't hear the whistle."

Jean rolled to safety and escaped with leg grazes and shock but Carol's foot got stuck in the tracks and she was hurled onto a steel crossbeam below the trestle.

Jean's 15-year-old brother, a witness to the accident, said Carol's last words were "How's Jean?"

She was dead on arrival at hospital.

The girls had been classmates at school and were "like peas in a pod," said Jean's father, William Apps. "She sacrificed herself."

William Strudwick, Carol's father, said Wednesday night he had bought a new dress and a bathing suit for his daughter's birthday and had intended to give her $20 to spend at camp next week.
